HLC0305: LAW OF CONTRACT - I

Objectives of the Course

Contracts play a key role in carrying on commercial activities- be it trade, business, employment or even e-commerce hence study of Contract Act enables students to understand and facilitate the basic principles of commercial transactions with understanding of rights and obligations. A thorough understanding of concepts of Contract Law is foundation to a successful legal professional.

The general principles that affect these contracts, and that allow their enforcement in case of breach, are given in sections 1 – 75 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 (commonly known as 'ICA'). Contract remedies are also provided in the Specific Relief Act 1963 (commonly known as 'SRA'). These two laws form the main course for this paper. In these topics, we will decipher all the vivid aspects of the Contract Act.

HLC0306: LAW OF CRIMES -I INDIAN PENAL CODE

Objective of the Course:

The Indian Penal Code is a Substantive law containing 511 sections. It was Lord Macaulay who moved the House of Commons in 1833 to codify the whole of Criminal Law in India. The Criminal Procedure Code was passed in 1860 (Amended in 1973). These two together constitute 'Criminal Law' of India. This codification of both the substantive and adjectival (Procedural) Criminal law brought uniformity and definiteness to the Criminal jurisprudence in India. Definition of offences, containing many ingredients must be remembered with abundant caution. Even if one ingredient is slipped, it will not amount to an offence. Further, the illustrations play a dominant role and should be studied again and again to comprehend the essentials of the offences. 'Mens rea' which is the subject of great discussion in England, is much simplified by the I.P.C. The subject is heavy but is worth its weight in gold.

After undergoing the study the student will be able to understand the following:

- Analyze criminal acts, their elements, parties to offenses, and application to the criminal justice system
- Express an increased awareness of the legal principles of criminal law and its application
- Students will demonstrate an understanding of the origins of criminal behaviour, society's response to crime, and the consequences of crime to our society, utilizing multiple perspectives
- Students will articulate ethical implications of decision making in a professional capacity.

HLC0509: JURISPRUDENCE

Objectives of the Course:

Laws are rules, claims are supported by arguments, and decisions are conclusions. The rules, arguments and conclusions are bound to conform to the requirement of logic. They must be systematically coordinated and carried to their consequences. Thus the whole body of legal doctrines can be considered as often considered as a more or less closely woven tissue of prepositions and deductions. The ideas which constitute this tissue are not presented to society ready-made; they are gradually unfolded by processes of collective thought; sometimes particular points get generalized and subjected to principles; at other times inferences are drawn from general prepositions. These processes constitute the dialects of law. Those dialects become ever standing principles and thus the consolidation of all wisdom of law becomes Jurisprudence.

HLC0615: LAW OF EVIDENCE

Objectives of the Course:

The Law of Evidence is one of the most important parts of the procedural law. The Law of Evidence plays a very important role in the effective functioning of the judicial system. The Law of Evidence is an indispensable part of both substantive and procedural laws. It imparts credibility to the adjudicatory process by indicating the degree of veracity to be attributed to 'facts' before the forum. This paper enables the student to appreciate the concepts and principles underlying the law of evidence and identify the recognized forms of evidence and its sources. The subject seeks to impart to the student the skills of examination and appreciation of oral and documentary evidence in order to find out the truth. The art of examination and cross-examination, and the shifting nature of burden of proof are crucial topics. The concepts brought in by amendments to the Law of Evidence are significant parts of study in this course.

After undergoing the study the student will be able to understand the following:

- To design, implement and review a plan for establishing each legal element of a given case to the required standard of proof with admissible evidence
- To plan and execute a witness examination that comports with evidentiary standards and that persuasively establishes a fact in issue in the case; anticipate and respond to evidentiary objections that may be raised during your examination
- To identify, articulate and assert appropriate evidentiary objections while listening to a witness examination, and respond appropriately to questions from the judge
- To draft and execute a witness examination for the introduction of a document or item of proof

HLA0601: INTERPRETATION OF STATUTES

Objectives of the Course

Interpretation as a branch of legal science emerges out of the necessity triggered by the element of fallibility of human communications. It is part of laws of nature. The increase in the creation of human legislations further validates the role of interpretation as a consistent source of legislation. The primary aim of all interpretation is to provide clarity to the existing legislations. Judiciary as the custodian of statutes interprets the legislation. Thus, the students of law on a need based approach will be trained to learn the implications of the schools of textualism and purposivism in the context of statutory construction as a tool of social change.

HLC0717: LABOUR LAW-I

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS AND WAGE LAWS

Objectives of the course

Labour rights are being integral to the social and economic development since the industrial revolution. Well balanced industrial development leads to increased productivity which in turn is a factor of national progress. Gone are the days when despotic industry-owners treated our precious labour as a mere factor of production, no more than a cost to minimise in the profit and loss account. As we grow to honour the crucial contribution of labour in society, studying, analysing and understanding system of labour laws, and exploring, with a keen and uncompromising eye, its flaws, failures, gaps and loopholes, is the key to combating rampant inequality and ensuring that labour has the right to live with dignity. The labour laws introduced for this course defines socio-legal control of labour relations and the history, the present norms, the emerging areas and possible future techniques of labour jurisprudence with reference to the tripartite responsibility of State, Workers and Employers.

This course has been designed to:

- I. Educate the student on the historical evolution of modern labour jurisprudence;
- II. Explain the importance of the International Labour Organisation and its role in the development of labour law;
- III. Elucidate the importance of, and laws governing, trade unions;

(d): INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL LAW

HS20704: INTERNATIONAL LABOUR ORGANISATION AND LABOUR JURISPRUDENCE

Objectives of the course:

Industrial legislation is the child of industrial jurisprudence, which in itself, is a product of the industrial revolution in the 18th, 19th and 20th Centuries, it was a form of protest against the inhuman labour conditions that the industrial revolution ushered in. In India, pre-independence era industrial jurisprudence was rudimentary. Protection of labour has always been the primary goal of industrial laws (both those enacted by the legislature and those developed through judicial interpretation). However, well before Indian labour jurisprudence became robust, the International Labour Organisation, a multinational labour body, led the way.

This course has been designed to:

1. Introduce students to the ILO, its formation, charter documents, composition, membership and functioning;
2. Examine the international labour code and the role of India vis-à-vis the international labour code;
3. Study in detail the historical development of labour jurisprudence;
4. Elucidate the long and mutually beneficial relationship between ILO and India;
5. Instruct students various concepts of labour jurisprudence, including tripartism, and understand the role of the judiciary in this regard.

The syllabus has been prepared with these objectives and consists of 6 modules.

FOURTH YEAR

VIII-SEMESTER

HLC0819: LABOUR LAW II

SOCIAL SECURITY AND LABOUR WELFARE LAWS

Objectives of the Course:

In the previous semester, students learnt the historical background and importance of labour rights and the basics of key labour legislations governing trade unions, industrial relations, standing orders and industrial disputes. While protection of labour rights in a dispute and permitting their unionisation is one side of the coin, taking proactive measures to promote the welfare and social security of labour is the other. As the Supreme Court of India has held, time and again, the right to life guaranteed under Article 21 is not merely animal existence, but the right to live with dignity. Therefore, taking steps to ensure that the labour force of our nation lives a life of security and dignity is of unspeakable importance and is part of the constitutional obligation of the State. The aim of social security legislation is to ensure freedom from want for our workers. This paper has been designed to help students understand the social security legislations in India in light of the above context.

This course has been designed to:

- I. Instruct the student on the concept of social security, its evolution, components, and objectives;
- II. Examine the role played by ILO in developing social security jurisprudence;
- III. Provide students with a critical and practical understanding of the rights of the employee in case of employment-related death, disablement, disease or accidents;

HS30803: CYBER CRIME

Objectives of the Course:

Cyber world has come to occupy an important place in the history of mankind. As science advances, the knowledge also expands. It is undeniable fact that cyber world has thrown new vista but regretfully it has to be noted that it has also being misused and spreading undesirable information. It has become necessary to find out ways and means to curb this menace of spreading evil knowledge. The potential of the technology to be beneficial as well as detrimental to the society has cast obligation on the people to be aware of the two sides of the technology. It is still in a nascent stage and continuously evolving every passing day.

After undergoing the study the student will be able to understand the following:

- To examine and discuss the history of computer crime.
- To examine various theoretical framework explaining computer crime.
- To educate about the regulation of cyber space at National and International level.
- To demonstrate knowledge of the different types of computer crime.

HS40803: FORENSIC SCIENCE AND INVESTIGATION

Objectives of the Course:

Forensic science is a versatile and enormously powerful tool in the investigation of a crime. Forensic investigation is vital to the mission of truth seeking, because the forensic evidence does not lie. Forensic investigation provide an overview of the field of forensic investigation whilst highlighting the interrelated principles and procedures of criminal investigation. Moreover gathering and examining forensic evidence is the only way to ensure that false information is exposed, and ultimately kept from the gates of justice. The forensic evidence, the forensic investigator, and the forensic examinations are all linked in the service of these objectives. Forensic Science deals with the application of the knowledge and methodology of various disciplines of science to legal matters. It involves the use of multiple disciplines such as physics, chemistry, biology, computer science and engineering for evidence analysis. The role of forensic science in criminal justice and the legal system is highly commendable.

After undergoing the study the student will be able to understand the following:

HS40804: SERVICE LAW

Objectives of the Course

“Government service is not a contract. It is a status”. Laws related to Public service in India are governed by the Constitution. One of the basic features of Indian Constitution is the separation of powers, i.e., the presence of three distinct pillars of state – Legislature, Executive and Judiciary. The Constitution conceived and provided for Civil Services like the All India Services and Central Civil Services which form an integral part of the Executive’s machinery at the central and state level. Labour laws governing civil services are quite distinct from general labour laws. The service conditions of the government servants are regulated by the Constitution of India.

This course has been designed to:

1. Trace the historical evolution of laws to govern civil services, both in ancient kingdoms and in the modern world;
2. Analyse the concept of public service laws as they are enshrined in the Indian constitution;
3. Introduce the student to fundamental concepts in public service laws; and

HS60904: SOCIAL SECURITY AND UNORGANISED LABOUR

Objectives of the Course

The bulk of India's labor force today is the unorganised sector. Suffering from poverty, without access to education, underpaid, unaware of their rights, and unable to enforce them, the odds are stacked against our unorganized sector. To address this problem, the legislature and the judiciary have, through laws and through judicial activism, repeatedly come to the rescue of these workers. This course is designed to introduce students to the challenges faced by this sector. The main objective is to instruct sector wise relevance which ensures the governance effectively. Other sectors can have identical/similar regulatory system and also be understood in the context of the treatment of the subject matter in this paper. The course work is within the viable framework.

This course has been designed to:

- I. Provide a broad-based understanding of the concept of the informal sector/unorganised labour – their nature, categories, industries, and the challenges and injustices they face;
- II. Instruct the student on the role of the ILO;
- III. Delve into the concept of social security for unorganised labour;
- IV. Focus on critical, India-specific sectors of unorganised workers and examine their individual challenges; and

FIRST YEAR

I-SEMESTER

H3LC101: INTRODUCTION TO LAW, LEGAL SYSTEMS & LEGAL RESEARCH

Objectives of the Course:

Introduction to Law, Legal Systems and Legal Research as a field of knowledge is essentially taught to the beginners of law. Contextually, it concentrates on the foundational dimensions of law at an introductory level. The core areas of dissemination include the role of law in human life and welfare, definitional elements of law, conceptual insights on legal terminologies and maxims, classification of law, basic views on legal systems, studying and interpreting legislations, understanding decisional law and fundamentals of legal research and methodology. The course work will be skill based. Enquiry cum learning by doing based approach is adopted to facilitate the students to imbibe intellectual abilities, self-evaluation and working culture towards accessing the teacher and law library. In sum, the course work ensures the transformation of a trainee into a student of law (ethical and knowledge dimensions). Importantly, the subject and related learning experience lays the platform for the students to evolve systematically towards the realisation of intellectual excellence in law.

H3LC102: JURISPRUDENCE

Objectives of the Course:

Laws are rules, claims are supported by arguments, and decisions are conclusions. The rules, arguments and conclusions are bound to conform to the requirement of logic. They must be systematically coordinated and carried to their consequences. Thus the whole body of legal doctrines can be considered is often considered as a more or less closely woven tissue of prepositions and deductions. The ideas which constitute this tissue are not presented to society ready-made; they are gradually unfolded by processes of collective thought; sometimes particular points get generalized and subjected to principles; at other times inferences are drawn from general prepositions. These processes constitute the dialects of law. Those dialects become ever standing principles and thus the consolidation of all wisdom of law becomes Jurisprudence.

H3LC104: LAW OF CONTRACT - I

Objectives of the Course

Contracts play a key role in carrying on commercial activities- be it trade, business, employment or even e-commerce hence study of Contract Act enables students to understand and facilitate the basic principles of commercial transactions with understanding of rights and obligations. A thorough understanding of concepts of Contract Law is foundation to a successful legal professional.

The general principles that affect these contracts, and that allow their enforcement in case of breach, are given in sections 1 – 75 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 (commonly known as 'ICA'). Contract remedies are also provided in the Specific Relief Act 1963 (commonly known as 'SRA'). These two laws form the main course for this paper. In these topics, we will decipher all the vivid aspects of the Contract Act.

In this context, the course seeks to cover:

- the concepts of contract law and its relevance through decided cases;
- essential aspects of contract with reference to General principles;
- Application of contract law in practical use cases.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE I: INTRODUCTION TO CONTRACT LAW

- a) The nature of contractual obligations

H3LC207: LAW OF CRIMES

INDIAN PENAL CODE

Objective of the Course:

The Indian Penal Code is a Substantive law containing 511 sections. It was Lord Macaulay who moved the House of Commons in 1833 to codify the whole of Criminal Law in India. The Criminal Procedure Code was passed in 1860 (Amended in 1973). These two together constitute 'Criminal Law' of India. This codification of both the substantive and adjectival (Procedural) Criminal law brought uniformity and definiteness to the Criminal jurisprudence in India. Definition of offences, containing many ingredients must be remembered with abundant caution. Even if one ingredient is slipped, it will not amount to an offence. Further, the illustrations play a dominant role and should be studied again and again to comprehend the essentials of the offences. 'Mens rea' which is the subject of great discussion in England, is much simplified by the I.P.C. The subject is heavy but is worth its weight in gold.

After undergoing the study the student will be able to understand the following:

- Analyze criminal acts, their elements, parties to offenses, and application to the criminal justice system
- Express an increased awareness of the legal principles of criminal law and its application
- Students will demonstrate an understanding of the origins of criminal behaviour, society's response to crime, and the consequences of crime to our society, utilizing multiple perspectives
- Students will articulate ethical implications of decision making in a professional capacity.

II YEAR

III SEMESTER

H3LC312: LAW OF EVIDENCE

Objectives of the Course:

The Law of Evidence is one of the most important parts of the procedural law. The Law of Evidence plays a very important role in the effective functioning of the judicial system. The Law of Evidence is an indispensable part of both substantive and procedural laws. It imparts credibility to the adjudicatory process by indicating the degree of veracity to be attributed to 'facts' before the forum. This paper enables the student to appreciate the concepts and principles underlying the law of evidence and identify the recognized forms of evidence and its sources. The subject seeks to impart to the student the skills of examination and appreciation of oral and documentary evidence in order to find out the truth. The art of examination and cross-examination, and the shifting nature of burden of proof are crucial topics. The concepts brought in by amendments to the Law of Evidence are significant parts of study in this course.

After undergoing the study the student will be able to understand the following:

- To design, implement and review a plan for establishing each legal element of a given case to the required standard of proof with admissible evidence
- To plan and execute a witness examination that comports with evidentiary standards and that persuasively establishes a fact in issue in the case; anticipate and respond to evidentiary objections that may be raised during your examination
- To identify, articulate and assert appropriate evidentiary objections while listening to a witness examination, and respond appropriately to questions from the judge

(d): INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL LAW

H3S2304: INTERNATIONAL LABOUR ORGANISATION AND LABOUR JURISPRUDENCE

Objectives of the course:

Industrial legislation is the child of industrial jurisprudence, which in itself, is a product of the industrial revolution in the 18th, 19th and 20th Centuries, it was a form of protest against the inhuman labour conditions that the industrial revolution ushered in. In India, pre-independence era industrial jurisprudence was rudimentary. Protection of labour has always been the primary goal of industrial laws (both those enacted by the legislature and those developed through judicial interpretation). However, well before Indian labour jurisprudence became robust, the International Labour Organisation, a multinational labour body, led the way.

This course has been designed to:

1. Introduce students to the ILO, its formation, charter documents, composition, membership and functioning;
2. Examine the international labour code and the role of India vis-à-vis the international labour code;
3. Study in detail the historical development of labour jurisprudence;
4. Elucidate the long and mutually beneficial relationship between ILO and India;
5. Instruct students various concepts of labour jurisprudence, including tripartism, and understand the role of the judiciary in this regard.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS AND WAGE LAWS

Objectives of the course

Labour rights are being integral to the social and economic development since the industrial revolution. Well balanced industrial development leads to increased productivity which in turn is a factor of national progress. Gone are the days when despotic industry-owners treated our precious labour as a mere factor of production, no more than a cost to minimise in the profit and loss account. As we grow to honour the crucial contribution of labour in society, studying, analysing and understanding system of labour laws, and exploring, with a keen and uncompromising eye, its flaws, failures, gaps and loopholes, is the key to combating rampant inequality and ensuring that labour has the right to live with dignity. The labour laws introduced for this course defines socio-legal control of labour relations and the history, the present norms, the emerging areas and possible future techniques of labour jurisprudence with reference to the tripartite responsibility of State, Workers and Employers.

This course has been designed to:

- I. Educate the student on the historical evolution of modern labour jurisprudence;
- II. Explain the importance of the International Labour Organisation and its role in the development of labour law;
- III. Elucidate the importance of, and laws governing, trade unions;
- IV. Create a broad and deep understanding of the law related to industrial relations in India;
- V. Examine the importance of standing orders;
- VI. Detail the various statutory requirements under legislations related to wages; and
- VII. Develop a keen awareness of labour rights under various situations.

The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will comprise 5 modules.

H3LA402: INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS

Objectives of the Course

The new trends in International Trade ushered in by the WTO and the TRIPS Agreement demand for a serious rethinking on teaching Intellectual Property Laws. The new economic policies, it is assumed will facilitate the free movement of capital, technology and goods based on new technology across the borders to promote International Trade. This is expected to bring in new technology for the industrial and economic development of India. It is also expected that there is going to be more investment on the research and development by the local industries to face the new international competition. On the other hand development of science and technology result in cultural property violating the intangible cultural heritage/traditional cultural expression and traditional knowledge of the developing countries and Human Rights of Indigenous Communities. This demand, India to afford better protection for the Intellectual Property based on the TRIPS Agreement and also to preserve and conserve the cultural heritage of the country.

(a): INTERNATIONAL LAW AND INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS

H3S4401: INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY ON TRADITIONAL KNOWLEDGE AND GENETIC RESOURCES

Objectives of the Course:

The legal regimes that govern the relationship between intellectual property, traditional knowledge and bio diversity remain sources of significant tension in international intellectual property law making. A number of difficulties arise in efforts to reconcile legal and policy norms at the intersection of the three regimes. Such difficulties generally stem from perceived short comings of the globally recognized forms of intellectual property rights to accommodate traditional knowledge and biodiversity in providing sufficient protection.

The objective of the course is to study how at the international and national level address the Issue of TK and Genetic Resources

COURSE OUTLINE

Module I: Introduction to Traditional Knowledge

- a) Meaning and Scope of traditional Knowledge – Interface between IP and traditional Knowledge – Need and Significance of protection - Detailed analysis of traditional knowledge and traditional cultural expressions
- b) Cultural Property, Interface between Cultural Property and Intellectual Property, Converting Cultural Property into Intellectual Property and Ownership Issues WIPO Guidelines on Cultural Property-
- c) Folklore - – Conceptual Analysis –International and National Perspectives.

Module II: International Protection of TK and Human Right Perspectives

- a) International Development of Traditional Knowledge Protection – CBD – FAO International Treaty on Plant Genetic Resources
- b) Protection of Folklore/Cultural Expressions by UNESCO - Developments in WIPO on Traditional Knowledge and Traditional Cultural Expression
- c) Inter-relationship between IPR and Human Rights-An Overview of Art 17 (Right to Property) and Art 27 (Right to participate in Cultural Life of the Community) of UDHR and Art 15 (1) (To take part in Cultural Life) of ICESCR.

Module I11: Protection of TK in India

- a) Positive Protection of TK under Indian Laws – Patents – Plant Variety and Biodiversity – Geographical Indications Copyrights– Trade Secrets – Test data protection.
- b) Traditional Knowledge as Property -Nature of Property in Genetic Resources and Associated Traditional Knowledge
- c) Ownership in Traditional Knowledge: Nature and Elements of Ownership – Exclusivity and Protection –Benefit Sharing.

Module IV: Documentation of Traditional Knowledge

- a) Recognition and Documentation Recognition and Documentation of Traditional Knowledge – Databases – Traditional Knowledge Digital Library “TKDL” -AYUSH Systems of Medicines – Biodiversity Register.

Module V: Protection of Genetic Resources

- a) Genetic Resources and Associated TK as Property – Nature of Property in GR and Associated TK – Common Heritage of Mankind – CBD – Permanent Sovereignty
- b) Ownership in GR & TK – Elements of Ownership – Exclusivity and Possession – Nature of Ownership of GR and TK in CBD, Cartagena Protocol and Nagoya Protocol (PIC & BS)
- c) Patent on Genetically Modified Organisms, Patentability of GMOs,
- d) Product of Nature Doctrine, Chakrabarty’s Legacy, Position in Different Countries, US, UK, EC Directives and Position in India

Module VI: Benefit Sharing

- a) Benefit Sharing – Different types of Benefits and Benefit Sharing
- b) Beneficiaries – CBD, Nagoya Protocol and Indian Law- Bilateral vs. Multilateral Benefit Sharing – CBD, Nagoya Protocol and ITPGRFA
- c) Interface between IPR and GR and TK – TRIPS-CBD conflict and proposed solutions

Module VII: Protection of Plant Genetic Resources and Farmers' Right

- a) Plant Genetic Resources- Common Heritage of Mankind-International Understanding of Plant Genetic Resources for Food and Agriculture-UPOV Convention 1961, 1978 &1991 Text
- b) Plant Varieties Protection-Distinctiveness, uniformity, stability and Novelty-Farmer's rights – GM Corps- International Treaty for Plant Genetic Resources for Food and Agriculture 2001 -Benefit Sharing- Mutually Agreed Terms-Prior Informed Consent- Access to Plant Genetic resources.

Learning Outcome:

1. Students will be able to understand the local laws relating to land
2. They will be able to handle any civil cases relevant to land
3. Will be useful to learn procedure aspect in registration of land, obtaining patta, chitta etc

H3S4403: FORENSIC SCIENCE AND INVESTIGATION

Objectives of the Course:

Forensic science is a versatile and enormously powerful tool in the investigation of a crime. Forensic investigation is vital to the mission of truth seeking, because the forensic evidence does not lie. Forensic investigation provide an overview of the field of forensic investigation whilst highlighting the interrelated principles and procedures of criminal investigation Moreover gathering and examining forensic evidence is the only way to ensure that false information is exposed, and ultimately kept from the gates of justice. The forensic evidence, the forensic investigator, and the forensic examinations are all linked in the service of these objectives. Forensic Science deals with the application of the knowledge and methodology of various disciplines of science to legal matters. It involves the use of multiple disciplines such as physics, chemistry, biology, computer science and engineering for evidence analysis. The role of forensic science in criminal justice and the legal system is highly commendable.

After undergoing the study the student will be able to understand the following:

- To emphasize the methods of securing, searching and documenting crime scenes.
- To emphasize the students the legal importance of chain of custody.
- To emphasize the tools and techniques for analysis of different types of crime scene evidence.
- To emphasize the importance of forensic investigation in crime detection.

COURSE OUTLINE

Module I: Forensic Science and its Development

- a) Crime- Criminal Investigation- forensic science-concepts-Scientific Criminal Investigation- - Need and Scope of Forensic Science
- b) Basic Principles of Forensic Science- Branches of Forensic Science- Forensic Science in International Perspectives- Constitutional validity of forensic investigation- Quality of Forensic Science in Criminal Investigation
- c) Law of Forensic Science -Validity and Admissibility of Scientific Evidence- Forensic investigation in Criminal Trials- Problem of Proof.
- d) Tools of Forensic Science- Forensic Science Laboratories- Chemical Examiners Laboratories-Document Examiners- Finger Print Bureau- Department of Explosives-Serologist to the Government of India- Mobile Laboratories- CID Scientific Sections- Computer Divisions

- e) Medico- Legal Institutes- Consultancies- National Crime Record Bureau- Central Forensic Science Laboratory- State Forensic Science Laboratories, Police & Detective Training Schools, Police Academies- Police dogs- Services of Crime Laboratories.

Module II: Crime Scene Examination

- a) Crime Investigation- Crime Scene- Its importance in Criminal Investigation- Collection of Sample or Materials
- b) Physical evidence- Classification of physical evidence- Types of physical evidences- Sources of physical evidence
- c) Signification and value of physical evidence- Linkage between Crime Scene, Victim and Criminal-
- d) Evaluation-Investigators Role- Surveillance- Sketching- Photography
- e) Crime Detection Devices- Crime Scene Documentation.

Module III: Forensic Analysis of Sample - Techno Analysis of Crimes

- a) DNA profiling- Finger prints-Tool Marks- Firearms- -Disputed Document- Narcotics- Alcohol
- b) Explosives- Voice Identification- Forensic Psychology
- c) Narco analysis- Evidentiary value of Narco analysis- Brain Mapping- Polygraph Analysis.
- d) Digital and Electronic forensic Investigation-Software Piracy- Spectrographic Forensic Identification- Artificial Intelligence
- e) IRIS and fingerprint biometric authentication - CCTV footage- Forensic Audio and Video Analysis.

Module IV: Forensic Medico Investigation

- a) Identification of Individual- Forensic Psychology- Interrogation
- b) Death Investigation- Causes of death- Determination of time since death- Medico-legal aspects of death
- c) Types and classification of injuries.
- d) Ante mortem and Post mortem injuries- Aging of injuries- Investigation of sexual offences –Toxic death
- e) Medico-Legal Aspects in the Admissibility of Scientific Evidence

Module V: Expert Testimony

- a) Expert- Role and Qualifications of Forensic Scientists- Code of conduct for Forensic Scientists
- b) Ethical issue in Forensic Science- Professional standards for practice of Criminalities-
- c) Sanction against Expert for Unethical Conduct- Value of Forensic Expert
- d) Forensic Expert and Ordinary Expert Difference- Admissibility of Expert Opinion
- e) Direct Evidence vs Circumstantial Evidence- Limits of Scientific influence.

Module VI: Relevancy, Admissibility and Probative Efficacy

- a) Principles of Relevancy and Admissibility
- b) Standard for Relevancy and Admissibility
- c) Reliability and probative efficacy
- d) Corroboration in admitting forensic evidence- Judicial Approach
- e) Comparative Analysis.

Learning Outcomes:

After completion of the course students will be able to-

- Identify and analyse a situation as constituting a crime, incident or transgression in order to determine the resources that must be activated and the procedures that must be followed.
- Differentiate the applied forensic methods used to evaluate various types of evidence.
- To disseminate information on the advancements in the field of forensic science.
- Evaluate the limitations of forensic techniques and interpretations. Define and recognize the techniques of crime scene searches, courtroom demeanor, and criminal investigation related to child abuse and sexual assault situations.

(d): INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL LAW

H3S4404: SERVICE LAW

Objectives of the Course

“Government service is not a contract. It is a status”. Laws related to Public service in India are governed by the Constitution. One of the basic features of Indian Constitution is the separation of powers, i.e., the presence of three distinct pillars of state – Legislature, Executive and Judiciary. The Constitution conceived and provided for Civil Services like the All India Services and Central Civil Services which form an integral part of the Executive’s machinery at the central and state level. Labour laws governing civil services are quite distinct from general labour laws. The service conditions of the government servants are regulated by the Constitution of India.

This course has been designed to:

1. Trace the historical evolution of laws to govern civil services, both in ancient kingdoms and in the modern world;
2. Analyse the concept of public service laws as they are enshrined in the Indian constitution;
3. Introduce the student to fundamental concepts in public service laws; and
4. Examine the laws governing civil services and the impact of factors as diverse as judicial review and globalisation.

The syllabus has been prepared with these objectives and consists of 5 modules.

MODULE I – HISTORICAL BACKGROUND OF CIVIL SERVICES LAW

(1) Origin and Concept.

- a) Meritocracy v. Aristocracy .
- b) Religious connotations of Administration.
- c) Governance in Ancient India.
- d) Concept of Dharma and Duty.

V SEMESTER

H3LC518: LABOUR LAW II

SOCIAL SECURITY AND LABOUR WELFARE LAWS

Objectives of the Course:

In the previous semester, students learnt the historical background and importance of labour rights and the basics of key labour legislations governing trade unions, industrial relations, standing orders and industrial disputes. While protection of labour rights in a dispute and permitting their unionisation is one side of the coin, taking proactive measures to promote the welfare and social security of labour is the other. As the Supreme Court of India has held, time and again, the right to life guaranteed under Article 21 is not merely animal existence, but the right to live with dignity. Therefore, taking steps to ensure that the labour force of our nation lives a life of security and dignity is of unspeakable importance and is part of the constitutional obligation of the State. The aim of social security legislation is to ensure freedom from want for our workers. This paper has been designed to help students understand the social security legislations in India in light of the above context.

This course has been designed to:

H3S6504: SOCIAL SECURITY AND UNORGANISED LABOUR

Objectives of the Course

The bulk of India's labor force today is the unorganised sector. Suffering from poverty, without access to education, underpaid, unaware of their rights, and unable to enforce them, the odds are stacked against our unorganized sector. To address this problem, the legislature and the judiciary have, through laws and through judicial activism, repeatedly come to the rescue of these workers. This course is designed to introduce students to the challenges faced by this sector. The main objective is to instruct sector wise relevance which ensures the governance effectively. Other sectors can have identical/similar regulatory system and also be understood in the context of the treatment of the subject matter in this paper. The course work is within the viable framework.

This course has been designed to:

- I. Provide a broad-based understanding of the concept of the informal sector/unorganised labour – their nature, categories, industries, and the challenges and injustices they face;

H3LC621: ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

Objectives of the Course:

The objective of the course is to make environmental law familiar to the students by understanding all dimensions of the subject. This module addresses the UGC mandate to introduce the 'environmental studies' and Bar Council framework syllabus for the subject.

The paper chooses certain international legal regimes to introduce the interface between international and national laws. The module is aptly divided to have a comprehensive understanding of natural resource law and pollution control laws. Emerging regimes such as mining, nuclear energy and health laws are introduced. The module will also introduce disaster management, coastal regulation and biodiversity laws. An introduction to state laws is provided to highlight the role of states in the environmental governance. The student will have the following competencies after studying the subject:

- 1. Students will understand the interface amongst the academic disciplines in relation to environment and identify the relevance of law in the resource discourse.*
- 2. Students will appreciate the legal structure governing environmental concerns from global scale to individual level.*
- 3. Students will be able to apply the environmental law for situations that may arise in the judicial, administrative and political platforms.*

LEGAL EDUCATION AND RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

Globalization has called upon the law to execute numerous responsibilities in society and lawyers are expected to act as change agents and social engineers in governance and development. If law is a tool for social engineering and social control, it should be studied in the social content. This means integrating law subjects with social and behavioural sciences. This would enable the lawyer to solve problems in socially acceptable ways and assist in developing public. A post-graduate student of law should get an insight into the objectives of legal education. The LL.M course, being intended to produce lawyers with better competence and expertise, it is imperative that the student should familiarize himself with the different systems of legal education. The pedagogy and andragogy method both at LL.B level and LL.M level has to be exposed to develop his skills. Growth of legal science in India depends on the nature and career of legal research. The syllabus is designed to develop skills in research and writing in a systematic manner that brings an obligation to imbue future generations with an understanding of and appreciation for the rule of law, judicial system, and the role of a profession.

After undergoing the study the student will be able to understand the following:

- To meet ever-growing demands of the society and be thoroughly equipped to cater to the complexities of the different situations.*
- To impart appropriate professional training to produce efficient lawyers.*
- To inculcate law students with the operative legal rules both substantive and procedural.*
- Equip the student with the necessary theoretical and practical skills to deal with the diverse and expanding world of legal practice.*

APPLIED RESEARCH METHODOLOGY (FIELD BASED RESEARCH)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

Legal Research is the process of identifying and retrieving information necessary to support legal decision-making. It begins with an analysis of the facts of a problem and it concludes with the results of the investigation. Legal research skills are of great importance for lawyers to solve any legal case, regardless of area or type of practice. The most basic step in legal research is to find a noteworthy case governing the issues in question. As most legal researchers know, this is far more difficult than it sounds.

Whether you are a Lawyer, a paralegal or a law student, it is essential that Legal research is done in an effective manner. This is where the methodology comes into play. Different cases must be approached in different ways and this is why it is important to know which type of legal research methodology is suitable for your case and helpful for your client. Applied Legal Research is one such methodology used to find a solution to a pressing practical problem at hand. It is a straightforward practical approach to the case. It involves doing full-fledged field research work on a specific area of law followed by gathering information on all technical legal rules and principles applied and forming an opinion on the prospects of solution to the problems.

COURSE WORK

In this course the student will be asked to do a field work research in law with applied research methodology and present it to the faculty (Guide). The course will carry 2 credits. The student will earn one credit for the field work and one credit for the Viva voce conducted by the faculty.

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

Practice in Law is an ardent and noble profession. Lawyers to be so successful must have augmented skills that include presentation, advocacy, presence of mind and precise legal delivery. Lawyers need not become experts in each of these areas, but they must have a basic understanding of them. These are now tools for the lawyers. The profession is part of a broader, more diversified, and challenging profession in India. They must adapt to these because law is no longer about lawyers; it is about clients.

The "hard skills" required of lawyers are only part of their expanded profession. They must also possess "soft skills" which is equally important as hard ones. It includes emotional intelligence and an ability to communicate effectively with clients. Lawyers be a compassionate, empathetic human being and approach problem solving from the client perspective.

This course gives the right input for the post graduate student of law to acquire right amount of training to enhance the required skills to face the challenges in the court of law. In this Course the student will undergo FOUR types of training for skill enhancement. The first type is where the PG student will undergo training in teaching law to the Under Graduate programme. The second one will be a presentation of the seminar in law. The third one will be a field work which includes Fieldwork which is Subject oriented, where the student will visit Court, Forum, Tribunal, Law chamber, Academic Institutions, jail Visits, Etc. based on the field visit the fourth one, ie Viva voce will be conducted to test the knowledge acquired through the field visits. All the four components will have one credit each. Each student will earn 4 credit in this course.

DEPARTMENT OF BUSINESS LAW

DEPARTMENT OF BUSINESS LAW

The Department of Business Law of The Tamil Nadu Dr. Ambedkar Law University, School of Excellence in Law, Chennai, was established in the year 2003 as the First Branch of Specialisation in the University. Corporate Law in its ever-changing contours requires one to be constantly updated with the latest developments in the field and the Department strives to impart that to the Students. The current intake for the Master's Course in Business Law stands at Twenty Candidates and the Alumnus of this Department have gone on to flourish in the Corporate Arena and also in the Judiciary after clearing the Judicial Services Examinations in flying colours, to name a few. The Department has been consistently promoting Continuing Legal Education by organising periodical events inviting Notable District Collectors, Alumnus practicing Law in the Globalised World amongst others creating value additions to the Research carried out in the field of Business Law.

The legal environment in which business is conducted has been transformed over the recent decades, with the revolution of corporate legal practice. Corporate transactions have grown markedly in scope, value and complexity. This has created an intense demand for highly trained and skilled corporate lawyers. Hence, those who have already embarked upon a legal career can maximise their potential as business lawyers by continuing their legal education with corporate-oriented studies at Masters Level.

The LL.M. in Business Law is structured to prepare students for these facets of successful corporate practice, and thus provides an excellent academic platform for those who have embarked upon a legal career or will do so shortly and intend to specialize in the area of corporate law. The syllabus has been accordingly restructured with effect from the academic year 2020-21 by the Business Law Department. The program offers 6 Specialized Core papers, 3 Discipline Specific Elective papers and 2 Generic Elective papers that synergises theoretical knowledge and practical applications, perfect for equipping the students with professional levels of competence of Business Laws. The courses are scheduled to be spread over 4 semesters in 2 years (CBCS system).

The specialisation provides students with ample opportunity to engage with the key theoretical debates of corporate law and related areas of law, like Banking and Finance, Insurance, Intellectual Property and Competition Laws. These courses would provide an all-important bridge between the various disciplines and skills required by the modern business professional. The elective courses are designed to address the needs arising from the unique dynamics of the current corporate environment, where business intersects with Cyber Law and Dispute Resolution. International Business Law course will prepare the student for a career in global business by providing insights on the complexities of transnational business interactions. The generic electives are structured to enable a holistic understanding of the corporate world, when seen through the prism of Human Rights and Consumer protection.

PAPER – II

BANKING AND FINANCE: LAW AND GOVERNANCE

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

The emerging changes in India, particularly after the initiation of the planning process as an instrument of rapid economic development had moulded and affected the banking structure, policies, patterns and practices and also the financial enterprises. Bank and the banking system evolved into a vital socio-economical institution in the modern age and backbone of any country. A significant development in the banking system is diversification in banks financing. The commercial banks entered into the field of wide ranging financial assistance to industry, both large and small scale, requiring the need for social control of the banking system eventually leading to the nationalization of banks.

The evolutionary process still continues with global phenomenon of liberalization. This has witnessed the entry of Foreign Banking Companies in the Indian market leading to deviation in the banking policy. Moreover new means such as E- Banking and E-Commerce has made it essential that the Indian legal system adopt new modus operandi to cope with the modern scenario. This course is designed to acquaint the students with the conceptual and operational parameters of banking law, the judicial interpretation and emerging dimensions of the banking system.

PAPER – III

LAW OF UNFAIR COMPETITION: COMPARATIVE JURISPRUDENCE

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

Competition plays a key role to play in ensuring productive, efficient, innovative and responsive markets. The consumers are ensured availability of 'goods' and 'services' in abundance of acceptable quality at affordable price. Competition law and policy also result in equity among producers and reduce rent seeking behaviour on their part. In tune with the international trends and to cope with changing realities, India has reviewed the Monopolies and Restrictive Trade Practices Act, 1969 and has enacted the Competition Act, 2002. Competition law has spread from country to country at a rapid rate and there are now over one hundred and thirty jurisdictions with established competition laws. Hence it is necessary that post graduate students are equipped with a thorough understanding of Unfair Competition Law in the International Jurisdictions. This course focuses on European, UK and US Laws, drawing on international and other national jurisdictions where relevant. The purpose of this course is to consider the rationale, scope and application of the competition law in various jurisdictions across the world.

PAPER - XI

INTERNATIONAL AND NATIONAL LEGAL FRAMEWORK OF CONSUMER PROTECTION

(Generic Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

Industrialization, developments in communication and globalization has brought in a lot of changes in our need, perception and attitude towards rights, responsibilities and duties of a consumer. In developing countries like India, these issues have become more problematic. During the past decade the need for consumer protection is felt all over the world. All these factors have increased more scope for research and advocacy for creating a consumer-friendly regulatory framework. The Indian legal framework has also undergone a substantial change to comply with the international norms. The subject has received tremendous importance among the contemporary legal fraternity in India. In this background the present course will aim to introduce the students to the present law and practice relating to consumer protection both in the national and international scenario.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following.

The Tamilnadu Dr. Ambedkar Law University

SCHOOL OF EXCELLENCE IN LAW

LL.M CBCS PATTERN

FROM ACADEMIC YEAR 2020-2021

DEPARTMENT OF CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS

DEPARTMENT OF CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS

The Tamil Nadu Dr. Ambedkar Law University was established with an objective of disseminating the knowledge of law at advanced level and to enhance the potential in legal research in the State of Tamil Nadu. Towards this end, in the year 2003 Post Graduate Department of Constitutional Law & Human Rights was established offering 2 Year LLM Fulltime course under semester pattern in accordance with UGC norms prescribed from time to time. In striving for high academic standards and excellence and also to facilitate the students into more flexible system of learning having inter disciplinary, skill oriented courses the University has restructured the curriculum into Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) from the Academic Year 2009 onwards.

The Indian Constitution being home-grown social document is mother of all the laws. The ever green Constitutional Law and Human Rights is much sought after branch with the growing demand for admission. LLM with Constitutional Law & Human Rights background is an additional qualification for the lawyering community. Since challenge to any law is subject to scrutiny on the touchstone of the Constitution and in the light of mounting constitutional litigation in the country, study of this specialized course offers tools and readymade solutions. Further, Indian Constitution is so loosely drafted in a way providing livelihood for so many lawyers needs no over emphasis. Students who opted this branch are shining with flying colours in the Constitutional Courts, appointed as Constitutional Law teachers in the Colleges and Universities across the country, selected as civil judges and some more as human rights activists. Two faculty members of this Branch securing Major Research Projects funded by UGC and ICSSR, New Delhi is the testimony for the research potentiality of the branch paving the way for creating new knowledge in the field.

The course components and syllabi is thoroughly reformed and restructured in tune with the global trends, changing times and circumstances enabling curriculum reforms better perform and transform the Indian society with effect from the academic year 2020-21. Subject specialization core papers will offer firm foundation in the subject so that the students/learners will be fully equipped with expertise on the field and requisite skills. Subject Elective courses are designed to acquire in depth knowledge of the Constitution, by the citizenry which is very much essential to render public service. The Generic Electives offered by the department are highly useful for public lawyering and policy making.

PAPER - III
LAW OF MEDIA AND COMMUNICATION: CONTEMPORARY CHALLENGES

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

Mass media communication from the days of printing press has played a very important role in the formation of public opinion. Mass media such as press, radio, television, films and internet play a vital role in communicating information rapidly and thereby spreading culturalisation and modernization in the society. The visual media are bound to have a much greater impact on human mind. Law plays a dual role vis-à-vis such media. PAPER - VIII

NATIONAL SECURITY, PUBLIC ORDER AND RULE OF LAW

(Discipline Specific Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

In every written constitution, provision is required to be made to equip the state to face grave threats to its existence arising from extra- ordinary circumstances created by war or external aggression or armed rebellion. Although “amidst the clash of arms, the laws are not silent” they do not speak the same language in war as in peace. Extra- ordinary circumstances warrant the invocation of extra- ordinary laws and such laws are known as emergency laws. They put grater fetters on individual liberty and also eclipse certain aspects of the due process. But in such circumstances, the democratic forces must assert that for survival of the State, the least possible liberty should be available. The students should be familiarized with different aspects of such emergency powers and scrutinizing intellectual attitude towards such powers. After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following,

- Balancing Civil liberties and National security.
- Preventive Detention and effect of Human Rights.
- Major Internal Security challenges in India.
- Role of Judiciary in protecting Civil liberties during emergencies.

PAPER - XI
PUBLIC SERVICE LAW: COMPARATIVE CONSTITUTIONAL JURISPRUDENCE

(Generic Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

The service law jurisprudence in the country, owed its major growth from the English and American development is a recognized fact. Civil servants constitute a separate species of the labour force in India and are given rights as well as liabilities under the Constitution. Inevitably, the constitutional dimensions of these rights and obligations are to be studied in this course. The laws and regulations relating to their recruitment and promotion, conditions of service and the dispute settlement mechanisms form important components of the study. This course also contains Special Category Services such as Judicial Services, the Supreme Court and High Court Personnel and All India Services.

After undergoing the study the student will be able to understand the following:

SCHOOL OF EXCELLENCE IN LAW

LL.M CBCS PATTERN

FROM ACADEMIC YEAR 2020-2021

DEPARTMENT OF CRIMINAL LAW AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE ADMINISTRATION

DEPARTMENT OF CRIMINAL LAW AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE ADMINISTRATION

The Tamil Nadu Dr. Ambedkar Law University Act, 1996 has the preambular objective of advancement and promotion of learning and knowledge of law in the education pattern of the state of Tamil Nadu. To provide suitable Post Graduate Courses and promoting Research in various fields of law is a principle obligation on the part of the university. Towards attaining the same, two – year LL.M. course Branch VI – Post Graduate Department of Criminal Law and Criminal Justice Administration was established in the year 2006 and the course was offered from the year 2007 under the semester pattern. The academic calendar and the curriculum are strictly as guided by the UGC. Subsequently, as mandated by the commission, the course was restructured under CBCS pattern, to design the same to be more students centric with holistic and flexible syllabi. Criminal law is a branch of law that relates exclusively to crime and the Criminal Justice System refers to a combination of state functionaries and processes which are involved in crime detection, its adjudication and correction of criminal conduct. The course is expected to provide the maximum sense of security to the people at large by dealing with crimes and criminals effectively, quickly and legally. The syllabi involves an advanced study of key laws and policies related to areas such as Contemporary and Applied Approach to Criminal Justice System, Law relating to Drugs and Enforcement Agencies, Economic Crime – Multidisciplinary and Cross National Perspective, Organized and Unorganized Crimes – Law and Policy , Digital Crime and Digital Forensic in Cyber Space, Law of Victimology And Human Rights – Juristic Perspective, Criminal Justice System – A Comparative Jurisprudence, Criminal Justice Research and Policy Development, Medical Ethics and Accountability, Criminalistic and Scientific Investigation – Law And Policy and Elite Class Deviance and Crime Accountability. The syllabus has been accordingly restructured with effect from the academic year 2020 – 21.

Controlling crime and achieving justice are goals that all societies must seek to achieve. Study of these subjects makes these goals possible. The future of the study of criminal law and criminal justice administration is quite robust. Increasingly it is called upon to contribute to the understanding of how crime prevention and control can be improved. The department continues to conduct various research initiatives in these areas and major issues to continue to address. Department besides imparting curriculum has been providing practical exposure to the students via visiting Central Prison, Forensic Sciences Department, Department of forensic medicine for Autopsy Visit, Trust way foundation De addiction centre and Juvenile Home Visit. Eligible candidates aspiring to pursue the course would ideally possess an innovative mind as the line of work requires them to answer hypothetical legal questions involving the criminal justice system. Successful postgraduates of Criminal Law and Criminal Justice Administrations interested in higher studies in the discipline may go for pursuing Ph. D & LLD in the subject. Such postgraduates find lucrative employment opportunities in areas such as National Legal Institutions, Law Firms, Defense, Criminologists, Detective, Criminal Lawyer, Forensic Science Technician, Lecturer / Professor.

PAPER – I

CONTEMPORARY AND APPLIED APPROACH TO CRIMINAL JUSTICE SYSTEM

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Criminal Justice refers to the agencies of government charged with enforcing law, adjudicating crime, and correcting criminal conduct. The criminal justice system is essentially an instrument of social control: society considers some behaviour so dangerous and destructive that it either strictly controls their occurrence or outlaws them outright. It is the job of the agencies of justice to prevent these behaviours by apprehending and punishing transgressors or deterring their future occurrence. Although society maintains other forms of social control, such as the family, school, and church, they are designed to deal with moral, not legal, misbehaviour. Only the criminal justice system has the power to control crime and punish criminals. The central purpose of the Criminal Justice System is to deliver an efficient, effective, accountable and fair justice process for the public.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following

- To understand the jurisprudential basis of crime, criminal justice system and administration in India.
- To acquire an understanding on correctional system and alternatives to imprisonment within the realm of criminal justice administration.
- To understand the role played by different functionaries in the criminal justice administration to meet the challenges of the modern India.
- The need for reforms and new challenges in the wake of growing importance and realisation of victim's rights and necessity to involve all the stakeholders for ensuring justice to all.

PAPER – II

LAW RELATING TO DRUGS AND ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Drug abuse is a social evil. Narcotics and other dependence producing substances have been used in the world in one form or another since times immemorial. Likewise trading in these substances has been carried on over a considerable period of time. Narcotics came into widespread use in Western medical practice during the latter part of the 19th century. They had in their crude form, been known for the so – called beneficial effects for centuries and had been extensively used, both therapeutically and non – therapeutically, for their calming, intoxicating and presumed curative properties. However, introduction of these drugs shortly led to their abuse. The course is designed to understand the need of wider Drug Trafficking Laws in a national and global perspective and how these policies affect the society in an affirmative way. The notion of International Conventions and its legislative intent is embarked in a careful manner with a wider prospect of future analysis.

PAPER – IV

LAW OF VICTIMOLOGY AND HUMAN RIGHTS – JURISTIC PERSPECTIVE

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

The law relating to the victims of crime has undergone drastic changes in the recent times. Though quite late, but yet the legislature has recognized the importance of the victims in the Indian Criminal Justice System and has, therefore, given them various rights by making amendments in the Cr P C 1973 from time to time. At the same time the Indian judiciary has become very sensitive towards the rights of the victims and has changed the interpretation of various important aspects of criminal jurisprudence to include the victims as a part of it such as right to “fair trial” of an accused. An important role has been played by various institutions and bodies such as Victimology and World Society of Victimology in the growth of Victimology in India.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following

- Basic knowledge in different theories of victimology

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Criminal Justice System – A Comparative Jurisprudence offers a comparative and critical investigation into criminal law, criminal procedure and criminal justice as it is conceptualised and also how it operates within the main legal traditions of the world (India, USA, UK, France and Russia). The subject explores the relationship between law, justice, crime and punishment and how each is manifest within contemporary legal systems. The subject uses comparative methodology to highlight similarities and differences between and within legal traditions. It also will assess the different criminal law processes and their outcomes and how these can inform criminal law reform in a global context.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following

- Identify the structural features of the criminal justice systems in the main legal traditions of the world (India, USA, UK, France and Russia).
- Identify the structural features of the criminal justice systems in the main legal traditions of the world (India, USA, UK, France and Russia).
- Employ methods for classifying and comparing legal systems.
- Compare and contrast the character of the criminal laws and criminal responsibility in different traditions and explain the reasons for any difference.
- Interpret essential features of the selected substantive laws and procedural law through the social, historical and political values that underpin the different conceptions of crime and punishment.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Comparative Criminal Justice System

- a) Meaning and significance of comparative Criminal Justice System.
- b) A comparative perspective on criminal justice & its main components.
- c) Impact of international criminal justice on comparative Criminal Justice.

MODULE – II: Comparative Criminal Law

- a) Histories and Functions of Comparative Criminal Law
- b) Principle of Legality (Nulla Poena Sine Lege)
- c) Analysis of Criminal Liability – General Principles of Criminal Liability

MODULE – III: Criminal Law – Comparative Jurisprudence

- a) Jurisdiction
- b) Punishment Theory – Sentencing Jurisprudence
- c) Victims

MODULE – IV: Diverse systems and Models of Criminal Proceedings

- a) Adversarial / Accusatorial and Inquisitorial Systems
- b) Crime Control Model and Due Process Model
- c) Indian system of Justice Administration and its challenges

MODULE – V: Pre – trial Processes

- a) Bringing information about crime incident before the formal system (Police or Magistrate)
- b) Investigation of Crime – Bail and Remand
- c) Rights of Accused and Victim – Right to Counsel and Legal Aid – Principal Features of a Fair Trial

MODULE – VI: Trial Processes

- a) Taking Cognizance by courts and committal proceedings – Hierarchy of Criminal Courts and types of trials
- b) Framing of Charge and Discharge Proceedings
- c) Acquittal or Conviction – Revision, Appeal and transfer of case for trial

MODULE – VII: Sentence Process

- a) Pre – sentence hearing – Transfer of Cases
- b) Sentences – Execution, Suspension, remission and commutation of sentences
- c) Reformatory Sentence – Withdrawal from prosecution – Plea Bargaining – Compounding of Offences

MODULE – VIII: Role of Evidence in Criminal Justice System

- a) Relevancy and admissibility, of facts – Relevancy of confessions and dying declarations
- b) Appreciating expert evidence in court – Relevancy and Admissibility of evidence collected through
- c) Forensic and other modern tools and techniques – Admissibility of evidence in Cyber Crime – Protection of Witnesses – Hostile witnesses

LEARNING OUTCOME

- Develop an understanding of the interrelationship between crime and punishment from an international and comparative perspective.
- To compare and contrast criminal justice systems in terms of the major legal traditions used across the world.
- Demonstrate knowledge of critical issues confronting global criminal justice systems as well as the international criminal justice system.
- To identify mechanisms to deal with issues of human rights violators and perpetrators of international crimes.
- To compare similarities and differences that occurs in court structures and procedures in multiple countries as well as the international community.

PAPER – VI

CRIMINALISTIC AND SCIENTIFIC INVESTIGATION – LAW AND POLICY

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Forensic science is any kind of science used in the legal or justice system to support and uphold the law. When a crime has been committed and evidence is collected at the scene, scientists analyze it, arrive at scientific results and give expert court testimony about their findings. Forensic science concentrates on facts that prove something did or did not happen in a criminal or civil case. Regardless of their scientific specialty, all forensic scientists have the same goal: examining evidence from a crime scene using strictly scientific knowledge and principles in order to find facts about a criminal case. Because the outcomes are objective facts, forensic science can be useful both to the prosecution and the defense. Any discipline of forensic science can prove whether and how suspects and victims are linked to each other or to the crime scene itself. Criminalistic and scientific investigation has become one of the most important parts of any criminal case.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following:

- Make students familiar with the field of forensic science which includes investigating a crime by applying forensic science principles.
- Enhance knowledge, in depth understanding and application of forensic science, policing and criminal investigation by teaching and research.
- Develop critical and analytical subject specific skills involving the principles, practices and techniques of specific field.
- Develop competence in research methods and presentation of information.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Forensic Science and Crime Scene Management

- a) Forensic Science Unit – Tools and techniques in Forensic Science – Jurisprudence of Forensic Evidence and Constitutional Challenges – Human Rights and Comparative Forensic Analysis
- b) Forensic Photography – Crime Scene Management
- c) Collection, Handling, Admissibility and Challenges

MODULE – II: Forensic Dermatoglyphics and other impressions

- a) Fingerprints and Palm prints – Biometrics
- b) Foot / Footwear / Tyre impressions – Lip prints, Ear prints and their significance
- c) Collection, Handling, Admissibility and Challenges

MODULE – III: Forensic Chemistry and Toxicology

- a) Forensic Chemistry – Explosives – Ballistics
- b) Forensic Toxicology and Pharmacology – Drugs of Abuse
- c) Collection, Handling, Admissibility and Challenges

MODULE – IV: Questioned Documents

- a) Introduction to Document Examination – Handwriting and Signature examination
- b) Typewritten and Printed Documents – Forgery Detection
- c) Collection, Handling, Admissibility and Challenges

MODULE – V: Forensic Anthropology

- a) Personal Identification – Human Growth and Development
- b) Forensic Morphometry of Skeletal Remains – Forensic Odontology
- c) Collection, Handling, Admissibility and Challenges

MODULE – VI: Forensic Biology and DNA Profiling

- a) Serology and Immunology – Forensic Biology
- b) DNA Profiling – DNA Polymorphism
- c) Collection, Handling, Admissibility and Challenges

MODULE – VII: Forensic Medicine and Psychology

- a) Medico legal aspects of death – Injuries and investigations
- b) Forensic Entomology – Forensic Psychology
- c) Collection, Handling, Admissibility and Challenges

MODULE – VIII: Digital Forensic and Cyber Crime

- a) E – data analysis – Types of cyber crimes
- b) Audio – video examination – Speaker Identification
- c) Collection, Handling, Admissibility and Challenges

LEARNING OUTCOME

- Develop skills in forensic identification, forensic problem solving either independently or as a team member.
- Keep abreast with all recent developments and emerging trends in Forensic science, Ethics and the law.
- Identify a variety of specific career fields related to forensic science and law enforcement and that an individual cannot be an expert in all areas.
- Outline protocols used when a crime scene is being secured and evidence is being procured by law enforcement members.

PAPER – VII

DIGITAL CRIME AND DIGITAL FORENSIC IN CYBER SPACE

(Discipline Specific Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Cyber Forensics is a branch of digital forensic science pertaining to evidence found in computers and digital storage media. The goal of cyber forensics is to examine digital media in a forensically sound and constructive manner with the aim of identifying, preserving, recovering, analyzing and presenting facts and evidence in a court of law. The courses are designed with a focus on strengthening students' knowledge in all areas of cyber security and digital forensics. This course provides hands – on experience in different computer forensics situations that are applicable to the real world. Students will learn different aspects of digital evidence: ways to uncover illegal or illicit activities left on disk and recovering files from intentionally damaged media with computer forensics tools and techniques.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following:

- To demonstrate foundational knowledge and skills in Cyber forensics.
- To explain the role of digital forensics and the relationship of digital forensics to traditional forensic science, traditional science and the appropriate use of scientific methods
- To learn investigation tools and techniques, analysis of data to identify evidence, Technical Aspects & Legal Aspects related to cybercrime.
- Describe the procedures for selecting appropriate security components in preventing cybercrimes.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Networks and Network Security

- a) Networking Architecture – Networking Technologies – Networking Topologies
- b) Network Protocols – Data Link Layer – Network Layer Protocols – Transport Layer
- c) Security Mechanisms in Networking Layers

MODULE – II: Cyber Space, Cyber Laws and Digital Crime

- a) Cyber Space – Cyber Laws – Digital Crime – cyber security
- b) Electronic Communication Devices – Communication Technologies in Cyber crime
- c) Classification of cybercrime – Classification of Cybercriminals – Challenges to cybercrimes

MODULE – III: Cybercrime – The present and the future

- a) Cyber war – The present and the future
- b) Cryptocurrency – Bitcoins – Ethereum – Blockchain – Ransomware
- c) Deep Web and Dark Web – Counter measures to overcome challenges

MODULE – IV: Cyber Forensic Investigation

- a) Forensic Examination Process – Methods in Forensic Analysis
- b) Benefits of Cyber Forensics – Classification of Cyber Forensics
- c) Challenges of Digital Forensics in Cyber Security

MODULE – V: Digital Evidence

- a) Duplication and Preservation of Digital Evidence
- b) Acquisition and Handling of Digital Evidence
- c) Analysis and Admissibility of Digital Evidence – Challenges with Digital Evidence

MODULE – VI: Legal Issues, Information and Human Security

- a) Law Enforcement / Criminal Prosecutions – Evidentiary Issues, Organizations and Standardizations
- b) Information security – Information processing – Secure program administration.
- c) Organizational and Human Security – Information security professionals – International Human Rights – Cybercrime a comparative analysis.

- Interpret and appropriately apply the laws and procedures associated with identifying, acquiring, examining and presenting digital evidence
- Work collaboratively with clients, management, and / or law enforcement to advance digital investigations or protect the security of digital resources
- Students will be introduced to the current research in computer forensics. This will encourage them to define research problems and develop effective solutions.

PAPER – VIII

CRIMINAL JUSTICE RESEARCH AND POLICY DEVELOPMENT

(Discipline Specific Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Criminal justice research and policy development will introduce research methods used in criminology and criminal justice. The nature of scientific inquiry, issues in research methods, and statistical concepts used in quantitative analyses will be explored. The content is designed to familiarize with the basic ideas, techniques, and problems associated with conducting criminological and criminal justice research. The study will provide with the analytical, critical thinking skills necessary to understand empirical research and the tools necessary to conduct research project. The subject should be of interest and benefit to the intended policymakers in assessing the benefits of investing in criminal justice research, and, to researchers and practitioners who wish to become familiar with major research findings and methods for improving the research – to practice link.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following

- To understand the basic principles, overview of scientific inquiry in criminal justice, identify scholarly research, and field research methods.
- To understand causation, operationalize, conceptualize, measure in research methods and different levels of measurement in research methods.
- To understand various research methods used to study criminology, including how to critically review criminological research
- To recognize strengths and weaknesses of research designs.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Scientific Inquiry and Field Research

- a) Criminal Justice Inquiry – Personal Human Inquiry, Errors in Personal Human Inquiry – Foundations of Social Science – Purposes of Research – Differing Avenues for Inquiry
- b) Field Research, Appropriate topics – The Various Roles of the Observer – Asking Questions
- c) Gaining Access to Subjects – Recording Observations – Linking Field Observations and Other Data – Validity, Reliability, Generalizability of Field Research.

MODULE – II: General Issues in Research Design

- a) Research Design – Causation in the Social Sciences – Criteria, Causes
- b) Validity and Causal Inference – Introducing Scientific Realism – Units of Analysis – Social Artifacts – The Ecological Fallacy – Reductionism
- c) The Time Dimension in Research – Designing a Research Project – Preparing a Research Proposal

MODULE – III: Concepts, Operationalization, Measurement and Survey Research

- a) Conceptions and Concepts – Operationalization Choices – Measurement, types, Levels, Implications – Reliability, Validity – Composite Measures – Typologies, An Index of Disorder
- b) Topics Appropriate to Survey Research – Guidelines for Asking Questions, Question types, Statements, Biased Items and Terms, Designing Self – Report Items
- c) Questionnaire Construction – Self – Administered Questionnaires – Software applications used – In – Person Interview Surveys – Role of Interviewer, General Rules, Software applications – Telephone Surveys, Video Conference – Specialized Interviewing, Focus Groups

MODULE – IV: Experimental and Quasi – Experimental Designs

- a) Experimental and Quasi – Experimental Designs
- b) The Classical Experiment, Variables, Pretesting and Post – testing, Experimental and Control Groups, Double – Blind Experiments, Selecting Subjects, Randomization – Experiments and Causal Inference – Experiments and Threats to Validity
- c) Variations in the Classical Experimental Design – Variations in Time – Series Designs, Variable – Oriented Research and Scientific Realism

MODULE – V: Agency Records, Content Analysis, and Secondary Data

- a) Agency Records, Content Analysis, and Secondary Data
- b) Types of Agency Records – Units of Analysis and Sampling – Reliability and Validity
- c) Content Analysis – Units, Sampling, Coding, Illustrations – Secondary Analysis

MODULE – VI: The Influence of Criminal Justice Research

- a) Role of Criminal Justice Researches conducted in India.
- b) Policing – Patrol Operations, Criminal Investigation, Specialized Offender / Offense Operations – Prosecution – The Case – Attrition Problem, Dealing with Career Criminals – Sentencing – Reassessing Sentencing Objectives, Sentencing Reform – Corrections –

Prison Crowding, Releasing Pretrial Detainees from Jail, Parole Issues, Attempts to Make Probation a Safer Sentencing Alternative

- c) Product – Oriented Research – Products for Policing Applications, Technical Research for Prosecution and the Courts, Other Technical Research – Assessing the Benefits of Research and Increasing the Return on Research Investment

- Students will be introduced to the current research in economic crimes. This will encourage them to define research problems and develop effective solutions.

PAPER – XI

MEDICAL ETHICS AND ACCOUNTABILITY

(Generic Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Medical law is a fascinating field of study as advances in medical research and new technologies shift the boundaries of medicine. New health issues are emerging and patient rights are increasingly taking centre stage. New and complex medico – legal dilemmas arise in clinical practice, in the realities of human health, and in the relationships between patients and healthcare professionals. Healthcare is not just confined to clinical practice but also has philosophical aspects in terms of medical ethics to it. This brings forth the necessity of the philosophy of medical ethics and principles in practice that every medico legal professional should understand. As advocacy is intrinsic to policymaking, the current crisis in health care suggests that new strategies for improving the quality and broadening the scope of health professions' advocacy are needed.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following:

- Covers all the conventions and codes of conduct including Nuremberg code, declaration of Geneva, and the physician's pledge by the World Medical Association (WMA), along with other international codes.
- Provides comprehensive reference material to gain a broader understanding of codes of conduct and the ethical practices.
- Puts a light on all the rights and the codes of conduct to be followed by doctors.
- Emphasizes the aspects of competence, advance directives, and negligence that play a vital role in ethical practice in medicine.

The Tamilnadu Dr. Ambedkar Law University

SCHOOL OF EXCELLENCE IN LAW

LL.M CBCS PATTERN

FROM ACADEMIC YEAR 2020-2021

DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL LAW AND LEGAL ORDER

DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL LAW AND LEGAL ORDER

Environmental Law is an important subject both for the individuals and for the society. The growing public awareness about the importance of environment and ecofriendly procedures has brought in the necessity to bring in environmental law as a specific discipline. This has led to the need for more lawyers, academicians and environmental aspirants owing to the stringent rules and procedures regulating the environment. It was this aim that the Tamil Nadu Dr Ambedkar Law University introduced the Department of Environmental Law and Legal Order in the year 2006 offering environmental law in the post graduate level.

The Department of Environmental Law has conducted programs propagating the idea of environmental protection to the academicians, students and the general public including National and International Conferences. Various training programs have been conducted by the department collaborating with the Tamil Nadu Fire and Rescue Service and also with the National Bio Diversity Authority. The most notable is the Regional Conference on Environment conducted by the National Green Tribunal in association with the United Nations Environment Program and the Pollution Control Boards of the State of Tamil Nadu at TNDALU premises in the year 2016.

Environmental Lawyers can practice for individuals, firms, corporates and the state. Hence the LLM Environmental law CBCS pattern is introduced from the academic year 2020 – 2021 designing the subjects are in such a way to give a deep understanding on the basic aspects of environmental governance and also the international conventions and treaties that provides the framework for the protection of the environment. As there are various authorities implementing environmental law in the country a specific paper is introduced to the students to have practical knowledge which will help them in their practice. Science technology and environment and food and agriculture laws are the elective subjects offered by this department to all branches of PG students to make them understand the importance of environmental law in relation to technology and agriculture. This branch of LLM in Environmental Law gives ample opportunity to the students to equip themselves to engage as environmental lawyers, academicians and also judges.

PAPER – II

INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL LAWS – PRINCIPLES AND GOVERNANCE

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

International environmental law has been an emerging field with a lot of multilateral agreements in force. Today, international environmental law has grown alongside human rights in setting the frontiers of cooperation amongst states. Its interface with international trade law is quite fascinating for those who are interested in the shaping of global resource politics and lawmaking. The subject has evolved with its unique principles borrowed from national and international laws in various jurisdictions.

Environmental legal studies shall basically introduce the international dimensions in the initial classes to further their knowledge in the municipal systems.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following

- To comprehend a basis understanding about water as a resource, and its impact on legal systems.
- To master the basis legal principles of transboundary water law.
- To study the national and international legal regimes relating to watercourses.
- To explore the connections amongst water, environment, land and human rights laws.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Global Environmental Concerns and Politics

- a) Transboundary environmental harms in history – migratory birds – protection of wild life – pollution in seas and international rivers
- b) Greenhouse gas emissions – melting of glaciers and other effects of global warming – exploitation of fossil fuels
- c) Environmental Politics – evolution of green parties – North – South Divide

MODULE – II: Evolution of Contemporary International Environmental Law

- a) Bilateral and multilateral agreements concerning pollution, and management of resources prior to 1972 – role of IUCN and UN agencies
- b) UN conferences – Stockholm to Rio+20 – Multilateral treaty framework and bilateral arrangements – soft law instruments
- c) Agenda 21 – MDGs – SDGs

MODULE – III: Principles of International Environmental Law – I

- a) Transparency, Public Participation and Access to Information and Remedies – obligation to cooperate in environmental matters
- b) Common but Differentiated Responsibilities
- c) State responsibility – Internationally wrongful acts

MODULE – IV: Principles of International Environmental Law – II

- a) Sustainable Development – Precautionary and Polluter pays – Intergenerational equity
- b) Access and Benefit Sharing regarding natural resources – Common Heritage and Common Concern of Humankind
- c) Sovereign right to exploit natural resources – Environmental Impact Assessment

MODULE – V: Global Commons

- a) Climate change and desertification regimes
- b) High seas and marine resources – governing Antarctic and Arctic
- c) Space Law and Environment – Air Traffic and Pollution

MODULE – VI: Nuclear and Other Transboundary Hazards

- a) Non – Proliferation – Nuclear Waste Disposal – Comprehensive Test Ban – India and International Nuclear Resource Cooperation
- b) International Disaster Management Law – Tampere Convention – International Health Regulations
- c) Movement of Hazardous Waste – Marine Pollution – Pollution from Ship and Legal Control – – Protecting shared resources

MODULE – VII: International Obligations to Protect National Resources

- a) Biodiversity – Forests
- b) Wetlands – Migratory Birds
- c) Natural and Cultural Heritage

MODULE – VIII: International and Non – Governmental Institutions

- a) UN Agencies for Environment – UNEP – UNDP – UNESCO
- b) Global Environmental Facility – World Bank – WTO
- c) IUCN – WWF – Greenpeace

LEARNING OUTCOME

- Understanding the importance and structure of international legal framework in relation to international environmental law
- Apply the principles to international and national situations involving environment.
- Appreciate and understand the link between national and international laws in the enforcement of International and National Environmental Law.
- To further research and practice in the field of international environmental law

LEGAL REGULATION OF POLLUTION CONTROL

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

The objective of the course is to provide a basic level understanding of the legislative framework of environmental regulation, its implementation and adjudication on Environmental Pollution.

The objectives can be further put forth as follows:

- To enable students to identify core environmental issues and legal and institutional responses to them.
- To analyse the role of judiciary in environmental protection.
- To introduce the basic concepts and principles of environmental law and to analyze these principles as tools of environmental protection, where the laws and policies fall short.
- To understand development of environmental law in an international perspective, specifically developed and developing countries perspective combating Environmental Pollution.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Environmental Problems from various Pollutions sources and factors responsible

- a) Pollution – Kinds of pollution – Air – Water – Noise – Land pollution – Food pollution (food adulteration) – Thermal pollution – Nuclear (radioactive) pollution – Light pollution
- b) Factors contribution Environmental Pollution – Industrialization, Poverty, Population Explosion, Urbanization, and Over – Exploitation of Resources.
- c) Impact of pollution on environment and human health.

MODULE – II: Pollution Prevention Laws and its Legislative Measures

- a) The Water (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1974 – The Air (Prevention and Control of Pollution) Act, 1981 – The Environment Protection Act, 1986 – The Noise Pollution (Regulation and Control) Rules, 2000.
- b) The Public Liability Insurance Act, 1981 – The National Environment Tribunal Act, 1995 – The National Environment Appellate Authority (NEEA) Act, 1997.

- c) The Ozone Depleting Substances (Regulation and Control) Rules, 2000, National Green Tribunal Act, 2010.

Module III – International Efforts for Environmental Pollution

- a) The Stockholm conference 1972 – Brundtland commission 1983 – Nairobi conference 1982 – The Rio Summit 1992 – the Rio Declaration at the earth charter – Major achievement of the Rio Summit –
- b) Main features of the Rio Declaration – Kyoto conference and part on Global Warming 1997 – present developments.
- c) Review of different Case studies on Environmental pollution – international perspective.

MODULE – IV: Enforceability of Principles and Doctrines under Indian Constitution referring Rio Declarations

- d) The Polluter Pays Principle – European Community Treaty. Article 102 Rule 2 of the Treaty – Rio Declaration of 1992’. Principle 16 of The Declaration – The ‘Polluter Pays Principle’ Exposes the Polluter to two – fold Liability Namely: (i) Compensation to the Victims of Pollution; and (ii) Ecological Restoration
- e) The Precautionary Principle – United Nation’s Conference on Environment and Development held at Rio in 1992.
- f) The Public Trust Doctrine – State has a duty as a ‘Trustee’ Under Article 48A of The Constitution of India to protect and improve the Environment and Safeguard the Forests and Wildlife of The Country. While applying Article 21 of the constitution of India (Right to life), the state is obliged to take account of Article 48(A) for Constitutional Obligation on part of State and of the Citizens for the protection of Environment.

MODULE – V: Fundamental Right to live in a Healthy Environment – Judicial Activism

- a) Role of National Green Tribunal.
- b) High courts and Supreme Court in environmental protection.
- c) Leading judgments to safeguard Environment and enforce the fundamental right to live in a Healthy Environment through ‘Judicial activism’.

MODULE – VI: Understanding Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) with progress of Sustainable Development.

- a) Provisions of environment impact assessment under the environmental protection Act, 1986.

- b) Rationale behind EIA – EIA methodology and process environment impact assessment notification 2006 – Preliminary assessment of EIA – comprehensive EIA – functions of the impact Assessment Agency – Public hearing and EIA – Understanding types and methodology EIA – Evolution of standards of EIA – History of EIA in India – EIA process forms – Impact assessment –
- c) Comparative review of EIA process – and procedures followed in foreign Countries.

MODULE – VII: Environmental Dispute and Grievance Settlement Mechanism.

- a) National Environment Tribunal Act, 1995 – powers, functions and jurisdiction of the National Environmental Tribunal, National Environment Appellate Authority Act, 1997.
- b) Powers, Functions and Jurisdiction of The National Environment Appellate Authority. National Green Tribunal Act 2010 – powers, functions and jurisdiction National Green Tribunal.
- c) Recent case studies on Environmental Dispute.

MODULE – VIII: Environmental Protection Rules and Handling Waste Management

- a) Environmental Protection Rules and Handling Waste Management by combating pollution – from Hazardous waste, Bio – Medical Waste, Municipal Solid Waste, Plastic Usage and Waste, E – waste – Management.
- b) Limitations on Emissions.
- c) CFC preventing the damage to the ozone layer – prevention and mitigation – toxic spills and leaks.

- Critically analyse the judgments relating to pollution control and identify the legal issues.
- Understand the remedies available to citizens in dealing with pollution and applying them in practice.

ENVIRONMENT ENERGY AND MINING LAWS

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

The World Energy consumption contributes to pollution, environmental deterioration and global greenhouse emissions. To end this, renewable energy resources can play an important role in controlling and reducing environmental impact. The process of mining also poses serious threat to the environment thereby causing larger impacts on the environment. This course thrives to cover the essential legal framework to strengthen the protection of environment and also touches upon issues such as legal framework within the country and International initiatives.

By the end of the course, students will be able to:

- Basic concepts relating to energy and mining and its impact on environment.
- International and national framework relating to energy and mining laws.
- Role of various authorities implementing energy and mining laws.
- Rights of displaced people due to illegal mining and their displacement.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Introduction

- a) Definition and concepts relating to Mining and Energy, Impact of Mining and Energy production on Environment.
- b) Kinds of Energy: Conventional/Non – Renewable Energy: Fossil Fuels, Coal, Oil, Natural Gas – Non – conventional/Renewable Energy – Wind Energy, Solar Energy, Hydroelectric power energy, Geothermal Energy, biomass Energy, Nuclear Energy – Types of Mining.
- c) History of Mining and Energy production in India.

MODULE – II: International Mining and Energy Laws

- a) Sovereign Rights of States to exploit resources through Mining activities – Oil and Gas Law (OPEC RULES) – Contract between two countries to exploit oil: Concessions and Licenses – Production Sharing Agreements – Investment law – Mining and Energy issues – Oil as a global driver of geo – politics – ONGC.

- b) International Energy Disputes – Energy and Security – Global Energy demand – Availability and distribution, Energy subsidies and WTO – Carbon Trading – Low Carbon energy: Policy & Regulation.
- c) Global Management in Mining for Sustainable Development – Sustainable Mining Practices – United Nations Industrial Development Organization – Sustainable Energy Solutions and Clean Technologies – Goals related to Mining and Energy under SDG Agenda 2030.

MODULE – III: Constitutional Framework and Policies

- a) Constitutional framework regulating mining in India – Union List Entry 54 & State List Entry 23 – Important Supreme Court decisions relating to Mining Laws in India – Privatization of Mining sector in India post LGP policy 1991.
- b) Protecting Environment, Health and Safety of people arising out of Mining and its ancillary industries – Protection of Tribal population and Livelihood – Environmental Impact Assessment: Promoting awareness of Environmental Democracy and Participation in Environmental Decision making.
- c) Constitution framework regulating Energy sector in India – Energy sources and conservation – Projected Indian energy production – production and usage – the management of the electric power generation sector – Right to access Electricity – National Energy Policies – Pradhan Mantri Sahaj Bijli Har Ghar Yojana – “Saubhagya”, 2017.

MODULE – IV: Laws related to mining in India

- a) Mining on Land: Coal Mines – Mines and Minerals Act – Regulatory Structure, Ownership, Foreign Ownership Processing and sale of mineral resources, and Tax.
- b) Minor Minerals – Sand Mining
- c) Off – Shore Mining: the offshore areas mineral (development and regulation) Act, 2002 – International Seabed Authority – United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea 1982

MODULE – V: (Energy Laws Part 1) Energy sector in India.

- a) Laws relating to Electricity – Electricity Act 2003 – Right to Electricity – Production of Electricity through Renewable resources – Appellate Tribunal for Electricity.
- b) Importance and need of Energy Conservation in India – Energy from Waste sector in India.
- c) Renewable Energy Production in India – Indian Renewable Energy Development Agency Limited (IDERA) – Ministry of New and Renewable Energy.

MODULE – VI: (Energy Law Part 2) Nuclear Energy in India

- a) Defining Nuclear Energy – Importance of the Nuclear Energy as a Renewable energy.
- b) Growth of Nuclear power in India – The Emergence of Environmental Concerns Nuclear power of India – Challenges – Civil liability for Nuclear damage Act, 2010 – Atomic Energy Act, 1962.
- c) Principles governing nuclear liability: Safety principles, Security, Prevention and Protection, Responsibility, Compensatory, Sustainable and developmental, Interdependence and transparency, strict and no – fault liability, Nuclear Energy Park.

MODULE – VII: Authorities governing Mining and Energy Sector in India.

- a) State Governments, Ministry of Mines (MOM), Indian Bureau of Mines (IBM), Ministry of Coal (MOC), Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas (MOPN),
- b) Ministry of Power, Bureau of Energy Efficiency
- c) Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change (MOEFCC).

MODULE – VIII: Protection of Environment

- a) Mitigation of environment degradation due to Mining – Adoption of environment friendly technology – Labour issues
- b) Displacement of the population due to mining, Marginalization of local communities and economic disparities in mining areas – Social Issues
- c) Rehabilitation of closed and abandoned mine sites – Afforestation and Preservation of Biological diversity – Institutional Governance of Mineral Resources

LEARNING OUTCOME

- Refine their understanding of energy resources and mining laws
- Adopt appropriate mechanism for protection of environment
- Implement best practices for sustainable mining
- Adhere to sound principles of protection and preservation of environment
- Critically evaluate and analyse the significance and importance of energy and mining laws and its implementation.

PAPER – V

RESEARCH METHODS IN ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Environmental degradation is an escalating problem from local to global scales.

- It is important for students of environmental law to understand and address these environmental problems in a practical way.
- This course prepares the students to understand the procedures of various authorities implementing environmental law.
- Hence in this course the students are required to submit reports on the working of various authorities after observing the procedures.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Sources of environmental law

- a) Sources of Environmental law – International – Theories – Treaties – Conventions
- b) Sources of National Environmental law – Constitution – Legislations – Administrative regulations – Industrial Code of conduct.
- c) Law making process of environmental law – National and International.

MODULE – II: Environmental Law Research

- a) Nature of Environmental Law – Trans disciplinary – Relationship with other disciplines.
- b) Fundamental Principles of Environmental Law – principle of intergenerational equality – principle of common care for human interests.
- c) Purpose of environmental law research.

MODULE – III: Agencies/Bodies enforcing Environmental law

- a) Ministry of Forest and Environment – Working of Central and State Pollution Control boards
- b) Functioning of national Green tribunal
- c) Regulatory bodies enforcing various environmental laws

MODULE – IV: Environmental compliance requirements

- a) Environmental permits and clearances
- b) Self-declaratory mechanisms – Information under RTI

- c) Environment Impact Assessment – environmental audit – Reporting disclosure obligations

MODULE – V: Liabilities for breach of environmental Law

- a) Environmental civil Liability concepts – relevant judgments
- b) Penalty provisions – offences by companies
- c) Environmental Insurance Liability

MODULE – VI: Working of NGT

- a) Authorities
- b) Powers and functions
- c) Landmark judgments

MODULE – VII: Working of Pollution Control boards

- a) Central Pollution control board
- b) State Pollution control Boards
- c) Practice procedures

MODULE – VIII: Working of Bio Diversity Authorities

- a) National Bio Diversity Authority
- b) State Bio diversity
- c) Powers and functions

LAW AND LOCAL ENVIRONMENTAL GOVERNANCE IN INDIA

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

The Course is designed to provide in depth knowledge and understanding of existing Local Environmental law, bye laws and policies.

- Moving forward it is tougher to look local planning and the environment is isolation
- So, the course is designed in such way to equip its learners to tackle the loopholes in the present institutional mechanisms for managing local matters
- To propose innovative changes as are necessary in existing laws to find convergence with urban environmental management practices
- To effectively implement existing laws/policies by blending them with fast changing needs and expectations of a dynamic society.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Understanding the Urban Society and Governance

- a) What is Urbanization? Process of Urbanization and Urban Culture – Challenges to Urban Society
- b) Dynamics of Urbanization and Patterns in India – Factors promoting Urbanization and Trends of Urbanization in India – Multiculturalism in Urban Society.
- c) Government Plans and Schemes for Urbanization – Urbanization and Basis Services.

MODULE – II: Understanding the Local Governance

- a) Gandhian perspective of Rural Development and 73rd Constitutional Amendment
- b) Village Panchayat and Environmental Management.
- c) Decentralising Governance of Natural Resources in India: Opportunities and Challenges.

MODULE – III: Local Environmental Problems

- a) The Challenges of Slums and Forced Evictions – Crisis of affordable Housing problems.
- b) Water supply and Sanitation crises – Social and Environment impact on Solid Waste Management in India.
- c) Urban Transport – Accessibility and Mobility – Urban Spatial planning problems – Town and Country Planning.

MODULE – IV: Laws and Policy – Pertaining to Environment

- a) Law and Policy – Concept.
- b) Environmental Law and Constitution – Major Laws and Environment – National Environmental Legislations – Water and Air Legislations, Environmental Protection Act – 1986.
- c) Ecology Conservation and Environmental Governance in Urban India – Environmental Liabilities under Tort, Criminal law.

MODULE – V: Laws and Policies Pertaining to Local Environment

- a) Slum Clearance Acts, Rent Control Legislation – Country and Town Planning; Apartment Regulations – Urban Land Zoning and Taxation Laws.
- b) Urban Development Policies in India – Disaster Management and Environment – Practice and Response Management.
- c) Land Use Policies, Land Consumption – Community Development.

MODULE – VI: Urban Enforcement Machineries

- a) Corporation and Municipalities.
- b) Urban Development and Metropolitan Development Authorities – Pollution Control and Water Boards.
- c) Licensing Authorities – Land Acquisition

MODULE – VII: Environment and Judiciary

- a) Role of Judiciary in prompting sustainable development. Judicial Activism and Environmental Jurisprudence.
- b) Green Court in India – Strengthening Environmental Governance.
- c) Environmental Management

MODULE – VIII: Urban Development and Environment Protection Mechanisms

- a) Urban Developmental Projects – Infrastructure Projects and Environment.
- b) Good Governance – Practices – Decentralization – Empowering locals in decision making.
- c) New Models relating to Environmental Conservation and its challenges.

- The Course will enable the participants to propose changes as are necessary in laws to find convergence with Local Environmental management practices.

PAPER – VII

CLIMATE CHANGE LAWS: POLICY AND MANAGEMENT

(Discipline Specific Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Climate change describes a change in the average conditions, such as temperature and rainfall, in a region over a long period of time. The objective of climate change laws and policies is to stabilize the greenhouse gas concentrations in the atmosphere at the level of prevent dangerous and reduce anthropogenic with climate system. This course thrives to cover the essential legal framework to strengthen the protection of environment and also touches upon issues such as, legal framework within the country and international initiatives.

After studying this course students will be able to:

- Improve their practice in learning and teaching relating to climate change.
- To be able to evaluate environmental, scientific and technological information in order to develop informed opinions about this issue.
- An understanding of climate and climate change processes at local to global scales
- An understanding of the policy framework in which environmental decisions are made in India and internationally

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Global Climate Change and Impacts

- a) Defining Climate and Climate Change – Types of Climate- Projected Impacts Of Climate Change – Risk Of Irreversible Changes
- b) Elements of climate (Wind, Temperature, Humidity, Precipitation, Pressure); Micro Macro climate zones; Earth’s climate through ages, trends of global warming and climate change
- c) Drivers of global warming and the potential of different greenhouse gases (GHGs) causing the climate change- Its e, Human, Animals, Society

MODULE – II: Ozone layer, Environmental policy & Agreements

- a) Ozone layer or ozone shield; Importance of ozone layer
- b) Ozone layer depletion and causes; ozone depleting substances; effects of ozone depletion
- c) Mitigation measures and International protocols; Environmental policy debate

MODULE – III: International Climate Change Regulations

- a) The Global Climate Changes Regime – The United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC), 1992
- b) Carbon credit and carbon trading; clean development mechanism
- c) Kyoto Protocol, Montreal Protocol, the Paris Agreement, 2015

MODULE – IV: National Climate Change Regulations

- a) National Emissions trading Measures
- b) Other National Climate Change Measures – Greenhouse and Energy Reporting – Environmental Impact Assessment and Approval Requirements – Nuclear Power Policy
- c) Carbon Trading and Sequestration – Renewable and Low Emissions Energy Sources – Geo sequestration – Energy Efficiency Requirements

MODULE – V: Policies

- a) Climate change Action at the local level – Contribution of the courts to climate change law – Participation by the Non – Governmental Sector in Climate Change law – Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC)
- b) Climate change; Policy ideas to protect the Planet in 2019 – National Action Plan on Climate change – NAPCC in 2008 – Participation by the Non – Governmental Sector in Climate Change Law – Ministry of Environment Forest and Climate Change (MOFF&CC)
- c) United National Climate Action Summit in New York on 23 September 2019 – ICLG – Environment and Climate Change Laws and Regulations 2020 – The Challenge of Integration – The Challenge of Regulatory coordination

MODULE – VI: Climate Change mitigation

- a) Political context of greenhouse gas emissions – key emitters and strategies to bring down emissions to safe levels;
- b) Integration of mitigation into development planning through low emission development strategies
- c) Main economic sectors where mitigation actions can be applied; key international mechanisms in planning and implementing mitigation actions – Sustainable – Clean Energy – green Technologies – Climate Change & SDG 2030.

LEARNING OUTCOME

- Refine their understanding of climate change laws and policies
- Adopt appropriate mechanism for protection of environment
- Implement best practices for prevention of pollution
- Adhere to sound principles of protection and preservation of environment
- Critically evaluate and analyse the significance and importance of environment.

PAPER – VIII

BIODIVERSITY, TRADITIONAL KNOWLEDGE AND INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY LAWS

(Discipline Specific Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

This course is intended to promote the awareness, knowledge and the importance relating to the intellectual property rights and its relationship in the process of promoting and conserving the sustainable development and the conservation of biological resources and the knowledge associated with such resources and protection of traditional knowledge. Accordingly, this Course aims to

- Promote the knowledge in 3 important disciplines which is interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary in nature but it brings to develop interest among the students
- Find the relationship between the 3 important domains – the intellectual property rights, biodiversity regime and traditional knowledge regime which are closely connected with one another.
- Create awareness to the students about the importance of international institutions which are playing a crucial role in shaping the relationship between the IP rights, biodiversity and traditional knowledge in the international arena namely, the WTO, TRIPs Agreement of WTO, CBD including the Nagoya Protocol, ITPGR of FAO, WIPO and other relevant international organizations.
- Impart the importance of the practice of IP, biodiversity and TK in the developing countries particularly in India and it also wants to impart the difference of practice of various IP, biodiversity and TK in the world in general, particularly the practice of IP, biodiversity and TK in the European Union and the USA.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Historical background of IP rights

- a) Historical perspectives of intellectual property rights – relationship with conservation of biological diversity – promotion of sustainable development – fair and equitable sharing of benefits arising out of the utilization of the biological resources and the knowledge associated with such resources.
- b) Practice of IP in the ancient era – Vedic era and the medieval era and the modern IP rights.

- c) Definition of IP rights – its meaning, concept – implications arising out of TRIPs agreement on the minimum standards relating to maintenance, availability and enforcement – Patents, Geographical indications, Trade secret, sui generis IP rights.

MODULE – II: Evolution of Biodiversity regime

- a) Definitions and concepts – biological diversity, sustainable development, genetic resources, farmers’ privilege, indigenous people, tribal rights to IPR.
- b) Practice relating to biological diversity – promotion of sustainable use – access and benefit sharing in the ancient era including Vedic era, Sangam literature, thirukkural – importance of basic Indian medicinal system: Siddha, Ayurveda – its implications relating to IP and sustainable development and biological diversity.
- c) Practice of various Kings in promoting biodiversity and environment – roles of Asoka Dynasty, Chola Dynasty – contributions made by Ori, Pari in Tamil Nadu in promoting biodiversity.

MODULE – III: International law relating to IP rights and its relationship with biodiversity and traditional knowledge

- a) Uruguay negotiations – implications of Uruguay round – adoption of TRIPs agreement of WTO – provisions relating to patents in TRIPs agreement – its implications on biodiversity.
- b) Provisions relating to sui generis protection of IP – its implications on bio patents, biodiversity, plant variety protection, farmers’ rights.
- c) Relationship between TRIPs agreement and UPOV convention – 1961, 1978, 1991.

MODULE – IV: International law relating to traditional knowledge and its implications on IP regime

- a) Emergence of permanent sovereignty over natural resources – adoption of international undertaking on plant and genetic resources;
- b) ITPGR – IP implications on food and agricultural genetic resources, utilization – multilateral benefit sharing scheme; Adoption of CBD – relationship between CBD and TRIPs – implications arising out Article 8(j) of TRIPs – implications arising out of Bonn guidelines – implications arising out Nagoya Protocol, 2010 – relationship between general ABS mechanism and specialized ABS mechanism – difference between bilateral benefit mechanism under the CBD regime and multilateral benefit sharing scheme under the ITPGR regime – application of benefit sharing mechanism during the emergency crisis;

- c) Role of international institutions – WIPO, WHO, UNICEP, UNDP, UNEP, WTO, TTIP, TTP

MODULE – V: Indian IP law and its implications on biodiversity regime in India

- a) Implications arising out of the Indian Patents Act – 1970, 2002, 2005.
- b) Patentable subject matter and its relationship with biodiversity and traditional knowledge.
- c) Geographical indications and its relationship in developing protection to the traditional knowledge, biological resources, farmers’ rights, tribal rights – application of sui generis IP system in promoting the rights of the traditional knowledge holders, tribes, farmers

MODULE – VI: Indian law relating to the traditional knowledge and its impact on the IP Rights in India

- a) Biological diversity Act – concept of PIC and MAT – access and benefit sharing – bio heritage sites – importance of various governments – role of Panchayat Raj Institutions in promoting sustainable development of biological resources, ABS, protection of TK including community IP to the TK holders;
- b) Protection of traditional knowledge of farmers through sui generis IP mechanism – protection of plant varieties under Farmer’s rights Act – benefit sharing scheme – Genome Savior Scheme – farmers’ privilege – farmers’ rights v. breeders’ rights – protection available to the farmers including the concept of innocent infringement – other mechanisms available against exploitation of IP right holders;
- c) Forest Rights Act – implications arising out of this Act on the IP rights of tribes, their right over traditional knowledge, biological diversity, community rights, tangible as well as intangible property rights – implications of schemes – Minimum Support Price for Minor Forest Produce, Van Dhan Yojana

PAPER – IX

COASTAL AND MARINE MANAGEMENT: LAW AND POLICY

(Discipline Specific Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Marine Ecosystem play a vital role in Human's Life. Especially, Coastal is a very potential area for a variety of development options. The increase of population and its activities will be able to threaten the existence and sustainability of ecosystems and coastal resources, marine and small islands. In this Course students will learn

- How policy on coastal conservation is required.
- The objectives are to get an insight on the coastal conservation policies implemented and to learn experiences.
- The findings demonstrate that countries objectives for coastal management are to achieve sustainable development.
- Legally protecting the Marine Biodiversity and its various frame works for future generations.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Introduction

- a) Definition of Coastal and Marine environment – Resources in Coastal and marine environment.
- b) Challenges for coasts and oceans – Exploitation of Coastal and Marine resources.
- c) History of Resource Distribution in coastal and marine ecosystem – coastal resource management – coastal zone management planning.

MODULE – II: Marine protected areas and International Legal Framework.

- a) Convention on Biological Diversity.
- b) SOLACE – MARPOLE – UNCLOS – Marine Environment and Agenda 21: Integrated management and sustainable development of coastal and marine areas including Exclusive economic zones – Other International Instruments.
- c) Strengthening International including regional cooperation and coordination – Coasts and Marine development under SDG 2030.

MODULE – III: Marine Protected Areas and India.

- a) Marine and coastal conservation under the Indian Constitution.

- b) Marine Protected Areas in India.
- c) Important Supreme Court and High Court decisions.

MODULE – IV: Coastal and Marine Conservation in Indian Legal Instruments.

- a) Wildlife Protection Act 1972 – Environmental Protection Act, 1986 – Biological Diversity Act, 2002.
- b) Biosphere Reserves – Coastal Regulation Zone Notification.
- c) Fisheries Regulation in India – State level Fisheries Management.

MODULE – V: Pollution in Coastal and Marine ecosystems

- a) Illegal Fishing – Legal Mechanisms preventing Illegal Fishing.
- b) Oil Spill – Impact of oil spill on Marine and Coastal Biodiversity.
- c) Coastal erosion – Destruction of mangroves – Coral Reef Destruction.

MODULE – VI: Preservation of Marine and Coastal Health

- a) EIA – People Participation
- b) Coastal Aquaculture Authority
- c) Marine Products Export Promotion Council – MPEDA 1972, Ministry of Fisheries, Animal Husbandry and Diaring

PAPER – X

SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY AND ENVIRONMENT: LAW AND GOVERNANCE

(Generic Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Science plays an important role in environment protection. The various technological innovations have made way to both advantage and disadvantages of environment from getting conserved as well as damaged. This Course gives a clear view of

- How science is related with environment.
- The technicalities used for saving the natural resources from exploitation.
- Discussions on the various health issues occurring due to environmental damage and its regulatory framework.
- Necessity of creating awareness about it to general public

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE – I: Introduction

- a) Science, Technology, Innovation – relationship – potential benefits and risks associated with technology and environment. Environment and Science trans – disciplinary perspective
- b) Technicalities that deplete natural resources – Alternatives – green technologies – smart technologies.
- c) National, regional International and Transnational legal frameworks.

MODULE – II: Sustainable Development goals and environment

- a) Sustainable development goals (SDGs) and Environment.
- b) Role of United Nations in dealing with sustainable development – Centres for promoting sustainable development – Role of civil society in promoting sustainable development.
- c) Transboundary Environmental Assessment and Role of Technology – Technology innovation for Sustainable Development – Alternate technologies and environmental impact.

MODULE – III: Medical technology and environment

- a) Medical technologies – impact on environment –. Medical Devices and Environmental consciousness – Expanding Health Technology Assessments to Include Effects on the Environment – Microbial Technology for Health and Environment

- b) International conventions on medical technologies, human health and environment – Regulatory framework
- c) Medical Waste management – national and international governance.

MODULE – IV: Communication technology and environment

- a) Communications technologies – environmental impacts – radiation impact on flora and fauna and humans. Information and Communication Technology (ICT) Revolution: Its Environmental Impact and Sustainable Development.
- b) Electronic infrastructure – non-electronic infrastructure – Legal regulation for managing communication technologies. Electrical Energy Production – Digital Coin Mining – Smartphones revolution and environment impact.
- c) E Waste management – regulatory frameworks.

MODULE – V: Bio ethics and Law/ Environmental ethics and law

- a) Bioethics – Risk Identification & Analysis: Methodological Issues & Ethical Issues in the Scientific Process – The Public Health Model of Environmental Policy: the reduction of morbidity & mortality
- b) Bio ethics and law – definition of harm and monetary valuation of environmental goods.
- c) Animal testing ethics of animal research. – Access and Benefit Sharing – Payments for ecosystem services: legal and institutional frameworks

MODULE – VI: Role of NGOs and Businesses in Governance related to Rapidly Advancing Technologies

- a) NGOs partners in shaping policies and programs – creating environmental awareness undertaking watershed development disaster management sustainable livelihoods; from joint forest management to giving inputs to policies
- b) Worldwide environmental organisms – Green Peace – WWF – Business ethics and environment protection.
- c) Role of NGO in Environmental protection in India – Environmental education – Social work – advocacy – consultative initiatives – Public Interest Litigation. Role of NGO in Environmental Impact assessment.

REVISED CURRICULUM

FROM ACADEMIC YEAR 2020-2021

DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN RIGHTS AND DUTIES EDUCATION

DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN RIGHTS AND DUTIES EDUCATION

The Department of Human Rights and Duties Education started functioning as a centre which was funded by UGC for a period of five years, after the funding period was over the centre had started functioning as an independent department, which was earlier part of Constitutional Law Department in the University. The Syndicate has sanctioned the approval for starting Postgraduate on 14th Feb 2007. This was the exclusive department which was funded by UGC solely to promote awareness in the field of Human Rights.

The syllabus of the Department of Human Rights and Duties Education has been thoroughly revamped with effect from the academic year 2020-21. A good number of new papers have been introduced, notable among them are Human Rights and Duties Jurisprudence, Novel papers like Human Rights Research Methods, Human Rights and Policy in India, Human Rights and Tamil Nadu Policy to envisage on the contemporary challenges, implementation, functioning and obligation to promote Human Rights. This is achieved through a combination of theory, judicial precedents, and practical approaches – captured through 6 Specialized Core Papers, 3 Discipline Specific Elective papers and 2 Generic Elective papers which will be studied over 4 semesters in 2 Years (CBCS system).

The shift in sovereignty accompanying globalization has meant that non-state actors are more involved than ever in issues relating to human rights. The development poses challenges to international human rights law. While globalization has enhanced the ability of civil society to function across borders and promote human rights, other actors have gained the power to violate human rights in unforeseen ways. The legal frameworks for globalization and for human rights, then asks to what extent globalization is good for human rights and to what extent human rights are good for globalization.

The rights of every man are diminished when the rights of one man are threatened. There is no right without remedy. Human Rights, being the most basic and inherent rights of every person, that is guaranteed in innumerable international and regional instruments. The department papers explore the various institutions and mechanisms set in place to ensure the effective enforcement of human rights and critically analyze their efficacy. The department envisages on the contemporary challenges of Human Rights by studying the historical background, development, jurisprudence, the philosophical foundations of the concept of human rights and acquire academic contemplation and training primarily in Human Rights Law blended with traditional and modern theories of human rights so that it brings the realization that the future world legal order heavily depends on reach and acceptability of Human Rights law, Prevention of discrimination and Developments in human rights and futuristic perspective in the grey area of human rights. And draw the difference between need-based and value-based human rights.

The subject has attracted scholars from almost all academic disciplines including Philosophy, Theology, Economics, Politics, International Relations, and other sciences. Thus, it is important for a student of human rights law to understand and dissect the legal content from the vast literature available on the subject. It is also essential for students to appreciate and apply the methods and techniques which are unique for the human rights studies. The concept of innovation in the Human Rights - ways to think innovatively liberally using thinking techniques. and contemporary issues such as war on terror, cyber warfare, and drone attacks.

We strongly believe that the papers offered by the department will not only enrich the understandings of the Human Rights Lawyers and Professionals in the realm of law, but it will also promote holistic understanding on various sectors and cross sectors implications on Human Rights. For e.g., Human Rights Research Methodology will be highly helpful in exploring the challenges arising during research in Human Rights related issues. The implications arising out of various technologies such as Biotechnology, ICT, Nano technology, Artificial Intelligence., etc.

SCHOOL OF EXCELLENCE IN LAW

LL.M CBCS PATTERN

FROM ACADEMIC YEAR 2020-2021

DEPARTMENT OF INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY LAW

DEPARTMENT OF INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY LAW

The Department of Intellectual Property Law of the Tamil Nadu Dr. Ambedkar Law University, Chennai was established in the year 2005, as the III branch of specialized study in the University. The LL.M in intellectual property is designed to equip the students with an advanced knowledge and understanding of intellectual property law and policy. During the course of study, the students will have the opportunity to undertake in-depth study of a range of contemporary issues in intellectual property law, and develop further critical understanding and research skills through Skill Enhancement Course and dissertation on intellectual property issue. The course is more practical oriented students in the final year visit any of the place of GI Tag and study the nature of the GI good. The department celebrate World IP Day on April 26, by organizing seminar or workshop by inviting eminent personalities in the IP field.

Intellectual property is everywhere today. The global use of intellectual property has been on the rise in the last decade and it is now an important concern in both developed and developing economies, intellectual property protection has increasingly been associated with the aims of promoting economic growth, innovation and creativity. On the one hand, IP-intensive industries are seen to make a significant contribution to GDP and national employment and bring other socio –economic benefits. On the other, tension remain between intellectual property rights and development of information and communication technologies, access to medicines and education, and the right to freedom of expressions and the right to privacy etc.

Intellectual Property Law is facing unprecedented challenges, evolving issues like cloud computing and biotechnological inventions, big data and traditional knowledge raise questions related to the continuous need to define an optimal interface between law and technology. Similarly, IP law has become a crucial factor in economic, scientific and societal/moral decisions. In view of the above objective the syllabus is thoroughly revised and the revamped syllabus will be effective from the academic year 2020-21, the course will expose to a broad range of perspectives on intellectual property law, practice and policy. It covers substantive law on all major intellectual property rights, including copyright, trademark, designs, patents and common law protection of intellectual property rights. It also examines these rights within the international intellectual property treaty framework and system. This is achieved through a combination of substantive law, judicial precedents and doctrines, customary law and practices, and practical approaches envisaged in 6 Specialized Core Papers, 3 Discipline Specific Elective Papers and 2 Generic Elective Papers which will be studied over 4 Semesters in 2 Years (CBCS System).

The ever- increasing role and impact of intellectual property law and policy makes specialized knowledge of this course a valuable asset for those: Intending to enter legal practice and specialize in intellectual property law; Seeking to work in areas such as the creative industries, cultural industries, manufacturing industries, pharmaceuticals, life sciences, computing, information and communication technologies, etc. with a focus on intellectual property; Intending to take up a policymaking role in relation to knowledge – intensive sectors; Looking to undertake further post graduate study in the area of intellectual property law or pursue a research or academic career.

The curriculum was designed in such a manner to equip the students with the latest development and challenges in IP law. The teaching pedagogy will be enriched by case study session as well as exercise in writing research paper.

- Understand the object of copyright in encouraging the intellectual creation thereby contributes to the social, economic and cultural development.
- Explore the global importance of copyright in the light of International instruments.
- Analyse critically the various opportunities available to the creators to exploit their works in the digital age.
- Examine the threats posed by the constant development of technology to the rights of the copyright owners.
- Understand the copyright in design and overlap in the protection of design under the Copyright Act and Designs Act.

PATENT LAW: COMPARATIVE JURISPRUDENCE

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

A patent is an exclusive monopoly right granted by the state to the person who invents new and useful product or technology. Initially patents were granted only to inanimate subject-matter which satisfies the patentability criteria. Due to the modern development of science and technology the concept of invention in patent has new dimensions. This course is designed to give an overview of patents, the registration procedure and the practice adopted with respect to this Intellectual Property across the globe. The recent trends and development that had taken place in the field of patent shall be specifically focused.

With this objective the course is designed to:

- Understand the concept of Patent and its historical perspective both national and international.
- Study the procedural aspects of Patents.
- Understand the relation between patents and plant varieties protection and impact of patents in sustainable development of bio industry.
- Study the Impact of patents on Modern Technology and thereby analyzing the issues associated with.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE I - HISTORY OF PATENTS

- a) History of Patent Law-National and International
- b) Study of Treaties and Conventions on Patent at International Levels
- c) International Patent System and its impact on National System.

MODULE II - PATENTABILITY CRITERIA

- a) Patentable Subject Mater- Concept of Invention and its new dimensions.
- b) Patentability Criteria
- c) Role of Judiciary in determining patentable subject matter

MODULE III - PATENT PROSECUTION

- a) Procedure for registration of invention- National and International application
- b) Specification and Claim- Disclosure Requirement.

- c) Rights of Patentee- Assignment and License of Patent

MODULE IV - ENFORCING PATENT RIGHTS

- a) Claim Interpretation-Interpretive Methodology and sources of Evidence
- b) Infringement- Doctrines of Infringement-The Literal Rule, Doctrine of Equivalence /Pith and Marrow and Patent Misuse Doctrine.
- c) Jurisdiction-Remedies

MODULE V - PROTECTION OF PLANT VARIETY AND FARMERS' RIGHT

- a) Significance and need for protection of Plant Variety.
- b) International Legal framework- UPOV Convention- International treaty on plant genetic resources for food and agriculture- TRIPS- Convention on Biological Diversity.
- c) Protection of Plant Varieties& Farmers Right Act 2001- An Overview

MODULE VI - PATENT SYSTEM AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

- a) Patent on Genetically Modified Organisms,
- b) Patent on terminator technology and its adverse consequences.
- c) GURT (genetic use restriction technology)-Conservation and Sustainable Use of Biological Diversity.

MODULE VII - PATENT AND NEW TECHNOLOGY

- a) Software Patents- Business Method Patents & Standard Essential Patents.
- b) Bio tech patents- Patenting of Human genes- legal, ethical and Social Issues
- c) Patent on Artificial Intelligence.

MODULE VIII - EMERGING ISSUES IN PATENTS

- a) Patent pooling- Patent thickets- Patent trolls
- b) Patents and Anti-competitive practices
- c) Anti-commons: Balance of Private and Public Interest in technological age.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

After completion of the course students will be able to –

- Develop a clear understanding about the requirements in relation to patentable subject matter and the criteria for the grant of patents and also expose them to the challenges in relation to specific fields such as biotechnology, computer software and pharmaceuticals.
- Will expose students to the procedural aspects of patent acquisition, both national and international.
- Will also familiarize the students with the system of maintenance of patent by the right holder and also the practical aspects of transfer of rights.
- Develop a wide understanding of patents in modern technology and its impacts.

TRADEMARK LAW: POLICY AND GOVERNANCE

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVE OF THE COURSE

This course is designed to give an overview trademarks and trademark law and practice in countries around the world with special reference to India. The recent trends and the development that had taken place in the field of trademarks shall be specifically focused upon. It shall be a detailed study across the historical, philosophical and legal aspects.

With this Objective the Course is designed to:

- To understand the evolution and growth of trademark law
- To understand the importance of trademark and emerging issues
- To analyse the status of trademarks in cyberspace.

- a) Grounds of refusal of registration- deceptive similarity.
- b) Procedure for registration of trademarks- National and International application
- c) Assignment and transmission of Trademarks-limitation on Licensing

MODULE III - TRADE MARK INFRINGEMENT

- a) Infringement of Trademarks- Trademark Dilution- Passing off action and its development in India
- b) Defenses to Trademark infringement- Doctrine of Exhaustion- Fair use

- c) Remedies- Civil, Criminal and Administrative remedies-unfair Competition Law

MODULE IV - TRADEMARK IN COUNTERFEIT GOODS

- a) Meaning of Counterfeit goods- Counterfeit mark- Counterfeiting remedies
- b) The International Anti-counterfeiting coalition
- c) Exhaustion of Rights-Online Trade and Measures against Counterfeit goods

MODULE V - TRADEMARK ISSUES IN CYBERSPACE

- a) Domain Names Disputes - Metatagging-Key Word advertisements
- b) ICANN-Uniform Domain Resolution Policy (UDRP) - Role of National Courts
- c) Consideration on Jurisdiction-interplay with National Laws and judgments- Jurisdiction of National Courts and Choice of Law.

MODULE VI - TRADE MARK AND GEOGRAPHICAL INDICATIONS

- a) Conflict between Trademark and geographical indications
- b) Need for protecting Geographical Indication
- c) International Protection of Geographical Indication

MODULE VII - LAW OF GEOGRAPHICAL INDICATIONS

- a) Historical background of Geographical indication in India
- b) Definition of GI-Procedure for registration- Part A & B registration
- c) Infringement, penalties and Remedies

MODULE VIII- EMERGING ISSUES

- a) National borders limits on Trademark Rights- Well known Mark
- b) Protection of Nonverbal Marks
- c) Character merchandising- Disparagement and comparative Advertisements-Parallel importation-Right of publicity- celebrity right.

PAPER - V
INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY LITIGATION: THEORY AND PRACTICE

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

This course is intended to teach the application of law in terms of court's principles and procedures exclusively for deciding intellectual property cases. Most significantly, in deciding Intellectual property cases both Supreme Court and High Courts in India are apparently following foreign judgments in many occasions. Intellectual property laws confer monopoly to the owners of intellectual property so the enforcement of intellectual property rights is getting more crucial.

The main objective of the course is to-

- Impart practical perspective of IPR enforcement mechanism by discussing various tests, rules and procedures laid down by the courts in case of infringement of IPRs.
- Teach international and cross border litigations of intellectual property rights.
- Study various doctrines evolved by the judiciary in the enforcement of IP
- Study the dispute settlement mechanism of WTO.

MODULE I - LITIGATION RELATING TO COPYRIGHT

- a) Copyright infringement-Direct infringement and indirect infringement
- b) Online Copyright Piracy- liability of internet service provider- Anti Circumvention Law.
- c) Exception to Copyrighted work-Exhaustion of Copyrighted work

MODULE II - LITIGATION RELATING TO PATENT AND TRADE SECRET

- a) Claim interpretation or Construction- Infringement of Patent- Literal infringement- Doctrine of Equivalents/Doctrine of Pith and Marrow
- b) Limitation and exception-Doctrine of First Sale-parallel import
- c) Infringement of trade secrets- breach of trust- Springboard doctrine.

MODULE III - LITIGATION RELATING TO INDUSTRIAL DESIGN AND THE SEMICONDUCTOR INTEGRATED CIRCUIT LAYOUT DESIGN

- a) Definition of Design-prohibition of registration of design –copyright on registration
- b) Piracy of registered design
- c) Infringement of layout design of Integrated Circuit-Reverse Engineering of layout design.

MODULE IV - LITIGATION RELATING TO TRADE MARKS

- a) Infringement of trademark-Deceptive similarity-Polaroid Factors
- b) Concept of Dilution- New trends in Passing off.
- c) Fair use of trademark- Doctrine of exhaustion of right in trademark.

MODULE V - LITIGATION RELATING TO GEOGRAPHICAL INDICATIONS

- a) Definition of Geographical indication-Prohibition of registration of certain geographical indication
- b) Registered proprietor and Authorised user-rights conferred by registration.
- c) Infringement of registered GI--special provisions relating to trademark and prior user-

MODULE VI - LITIGATION RELATING TO PLANT VARIETIES

- a) Definition of variety- Registerable varieties -rights of breeder, farmers and researchers.
- b) Infringement –protection of innocent infringement by farmers,
- c) Access to biological diversity-sustainable use of diversity - Transfer of technology and equitable sharing of benefits.

MODULE VII - ENFORCEMENT OF IPR UNDER TRIPS AGREEMENT

- a) Prior to TRIPS Agreement –Berne Convention and Paris Convention- reference to International Court of justice
- b) Enforcement, Acquisition and Maintenance of Rights under TRIPS Agreement
- c) Dispute settlement mechanism –XXII and XXIII of GATT 1994- - Dispute Settlement Understanding (DSU).

MODULE VIII - CROSS-BORDER IPR LITIGATIONS

- a) Private International Law and Intellectual property law
- b) Hague Convention on Choice of Court and Choice of law- Recognition and enforcement of foreign judgment.
- c) Cross-border Intellectual property disputes in digital environment

PAPER - VI

SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY AND INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS: LAW AND POLICY

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

The protection of Intellectual Property is of high priority in the modern times due to the rapid advancement in science and technology, especially in the field of Information and Communications, Biotechnology, Pharmaceutical drugs etc. These technologies are expensive to develop but at the same time they are vulnerable to infringement. The revolution in the technologies leads to the new Intellectual Property regime in order to incentivize the innovations and simultaneously ensuring the technology transfer. This course will focus on the significance of Intellectual Property Rights in achieving the myriad benefits from the science and technological innovations.

With this Objective the Course is designed to

- Analyse the nature of the Intellectual Property system and their implications for the science and technology.
- Understand the necessity of effective Intellectual Property protection in the new trends of innovation.
- Examine the difficulty in the assertion of Intellectual Property Rights in the new technologies through the traditional enforcement mechanisms.
- Review the current Intellectual Property mechanisms to protect the emerging technologies at the national and international levels.

MODULE I - INTRODUCTION

- a) Development in Science and Technology
- b) Impact of Science and technology on human rights and preservation of human health
- c) Nature of Intellectual Property Rights-effectiveness in protecting the new technologies-Broadening the scope of IP regime

MODULE II - IPR AND BIOTECHNOLOGY

- a) Meaning of Biotechnology-Different Generation of biotechnology.
- b) Evolution of Biotech Patent Law- Product of nature doctrine

- c) Microorganism as a patentable subject matter-Gene patent.

MODULE III - AGRICULTURAL BIOTECHNOLOGY

- a) Green Technology-Bio safety and biodiversity-conservation of biological diversity.
- b) Impact of biotechnology on biological diversity
- c) Legal regulation of biological diversity and Farmers' Right

MODULE IV - BIO –SAFETY CONCERNS IN BIOTECHNOLOGY

- a) Cartagena protocol on bio-safety and WTO
- b) Bio safety clearing house, precautionary principle
- c) Genetically modified organisms (GMO) and Living Modified Organisms (LMO), concerns in trade in GMO/LMO

MODULE V - IPR AND PHARMACEUTICALS

- a) Role of IPR in development and access to Pharmaceutical drugs
- b) Patent Linkage
- c) Data Exclusivity

MODULE VI - IPR AND COMPUTER PROGRAMME

- a) Copyright Protection of Computer programme
- b) Software Patent-Patentability of computer related invention
- c) Business method Patent

MODULE VII - IPR ISSUES IN CYBERSPACE

- a) Copyright Issues in Cyberspace
- b) Secondary Liability of Technology providers-ISP Liability
- c) Trademark Issues in Cyberspace

MODULE VIII - NEW ISSUES AND CHALLENGES

- a) Database Protection and Right to privacy
- b) Artificial Intelligence – Big Data Analytics
- c) Block Chain Technology and IP

PAPER - X
INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS AND HUMAN RIGHTS:
NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL PERSPECTIVES

(Generic Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVE OF THE COURSE

The relationship between intellectual property rights and human rights is one of the emerging areas in academic interest. The importance of the subject has been accentuated by the still largely unexplored links between certain human rights and a variety of issues such as indigenous peoples' rights, the rights of the blind and the visually impaired, biodiversity, open source developments, creative commons licensing, free speech and the access to knowledge. These links have generated a heated, contemporary and vital debate both from the theoretical and practical point of view. The object of the course is to explore the international, regional and national legal frameworks in protecting the human rights under the intellectual property laws.

After undergoing the course the student will be able to understand the - Relationship between the IP and human rights which include cultural heritage, traditional knowledge, right to health, science and technology and non- discrimination.

- Various international instruments in protecting the human rights of the individual
- The extent to which IPR have been recognized in the HR regime i.e., right to property.

TRANSNATIONAL JURISDICTIONAL PERSPECTIVE OF INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS

(Generic Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

Intellectual Property Rights are territorial in nature. The extents to which the Intellectual property rights exist and are protected within the territorial borders are determined by each state's IP law. But the usage of Intellectual Property is not limited by territorial boundaries since globalization, economic integration and digitalization. This leads to the interaction between conflicts of law and Intellectual property rights. The territoriality principle has implications for the conflict of law in Intellectual property rights. Conflict of law is a field of municipal law that deals with private law disputes that have foreign elements. The impact of Intellectual property infringement on different territories raises the question of jurisdiction, applicable law and enforcement and recognition of foreign judgments and judicial cooperation in cross border IP disputes.

With this objective the course is designed to

- Explores cross-border issues that may arise in intellectual property infringement litigation.
- Discuss the principle of territoriality of Intellectual Property Rights versus the extraterritorial enforcement of those rights.
- Examine the issue of exhaustion of IP rights and Parallel imports.
- Discuss the choice of forum, choice of law and enforcement and recognition of foreign judgments.

FROM ACADEMIC YEAR 2020-2021

DEPARTMENT OF INTERNATIONAL LAW AND ORGANISATION

DEPARTMENT OF INTERNATIONAL LAW AND ORGANISATION

The Tamil Nadu Dr. Ambedkar Law University has established the Department of International Law and Organisation in 2005 with the vision of disseminating value-based education with the ideals set by the Constitution of India and to promote the Universal International Law along with its evolutionary developments. In the context of dissemination of International Law, the role of Indian international legal scholarship is rich and resourceful. In Tamil Nadu, the establishment of the Department of Legal Studies in the University of Madras marked a signpost event in the sphere of training the legal minds in India towards specialising International Law. International Law in its substance is more a way of life rather than a discipline of knowledge in law. The creation design of earth and celestial bodies along with the human family and nature with their day to day interactions are the subject matter of the discipline. The significance of the universal life, society, law and welfare approach is recognised by all academic societies throughout the world.

The Department of International Law and Organisation in its LLM Course Programme of two Years envisions imparting critical international legal insights to the students on the foundational as well as contemporary areas. The syllabus has been accordingly restructured with effect from the academic year 2020-21. The Department has a unique significance as it is one of the rarest academic centres in the Nation to offer along with traditional subjects the course papers of modern and human welfare-based relevance such as International Diplomatic Law, International Criminal Law, Transboundary Water Courses Law and Governance, Admiralty Law and Practice and International Space Law and Policy. In the academic sense, the beginners at the research level are introduced to the element of universality in general and trained towards phase by phase evolution of the subject. The academic course curricula represents inter alia the following thematic perceptions: Nature of Universal International Law, Principle based historical significance, the mono conception of Statist led international law and its complexities, Impact of Euro-centric international law through international legal philosophy, ideology of colonialism and its ill consequences on mankind, Birth of International Institutions as a reaction to World Wars I & II and introduction to the notion of international public order and life with the aim of maintenance of international peace and security, Evolution and networking of International Institutions, especially the Law of United Nations from moral to political, political to legal, legal to universal, Movement of Codification to Progressive Development of International Law, Extension of International Law through Lex Specialis regimes and their complexities, Contemporary Normative International Legal Science, Humanisation Movement and Revivalist Approaches in International Law through International Legal and Multi-Disciplinary Scholarship.

PAPER – III

INTERNATIONAL SPACE LAW – POLICIES AND CHALLENGES

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

As humans increase their presence in outer space, the law that govern human activities in that environment is becoming increasingly relevant and important to both States and the commercial sector. In this context, this paper focused to provide a clear understanding of the international space regime that has emerged from within the United Nations. With the vast growth of Space Law, the need for a functional knowledge of the international legal framework for outer space is vital to interpret the Outer Space Treaties and its progeny and apply their provisions to present and future factual scenarios. This development raises the need for some international regulatory and policy changes with a view to maintaining orderly and peaceful space exploration and exploitation. This course aims to conceptualize the challenges in space law and attempts to predict how space law might develop to address contemporary and future challenges,

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following

- Have a comprehensive understanding of international framework of space law
- Analyse the developments of space law at national level by interpreting the laws passed by some of the space travelling nations
- The role of International Instruments in law making and policies related to outer space
- Examines the current and potential future uses of outer space; the law-making process relating to space activities

MODULE – I: Development of International Space Law

- a) Who owns outer space? – Early Treaties Governing Activities in Outer Space – United Nations Instruments – Outer Space Treaty (Treaty on Principles Governing the Activities of States in the Exploration and Use of Outer Space, including the Moon and Other Celestial Bodies), 1967 – Moon treaty, 1979
- b) Agreement on the Rescue of Astronauts, 1968 – Convention on International Liability for Damage Caused by Space Objects (Liability Convention), 1972 – Registration Convention
- c) International intergovernmental organizations and bodies related to space activities – United Nations Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space (COPUOS) – United Nations Office for Outer Space Affairs (OOSA)

MODULE – II: National Space Policy and Administration

- a) Need for National Space Legislation – Launching state and Registering State – Registration and identification – Question of state sovereignty – Jurisdiction – Claim of Property Rights
- b) India’s Space Industry – Indian Space Research Organisation (“ISRO”), 1962 – INSAT Satellites – Indian National Space Promotion and Authorisation Centre (IN – SPACe), 2020
- c) Regulatory framework governing the space industry in India – Satellite Communication Policy, 1997 – The revised Remote Sensing Data Policy, 2011 – The Technology Transfer Policy of ISRO – The Constitution of India, 1950

MODULE – III: National Security & Military Space Activities

- a) The Military Use of Outer Space – The Space Force
- b) Use of Nuclear Power Sources in Space – for Space Missions – UNGA Resolution 47/68 of 1992 – Prevention of Arms Race in Outer Space – United Nations Conference on Disarmament
- c) The Missile Technology Control Regime (MTCR), 1987 – The Hague International Code of Conduct against Ballistic Missile Proliferation, 2002

MODULE – IV: Commercialization beyond Earth Orbit

- a) The concepts of commercialization and privatization – Innovation leads to commercialization – Contribution of Space law to Economic and Social Development
- b) UNIDROIT Convention and Draft Space Protocol – Creation and registration of International interests in space assets – Default and Remedies
- c) Space Tourism – Government Agencies and their Role in Space – National Aeronautics and Space Act of 1958 – NASA – FAA – The United Kingdom Satellite Applications Catapult – Case Study – Space Mining – Luxemburg Law on the Exploration and Use of Space Resources of 2017 – Conformity with International Law Principles

MODULE – V: International Systems of Space Communications

- a) Satellite and Communication Law – UNIDROIT Space Protocol – International Telecommunication Organisation – Consultative Committee for Space Data Systems (CCSDS), 1982
- b) International satellite organizations – International Committee on Global Navigation Satellite Systems (ICG), 2005
- c) Remote Sensing – Issues of International Law in Space Meteorology

MODULE – VI: Development and Challenges in International Space Law

- a) Unaddressed Issues in Traditional Conventions – Boundary Between Airspace and Outer Space – Development of Space Tourism, – New Space – Space debris – Space Traffic Management (STM) – Space Data Association (SDA)
- b) Climate change – Protecting Celestial Bodies – Protection of Earth Environment
- c) Intellectual Property Rights in Space – Space Patents – Private Property Rights – Contradictions with the Outer Space Treaty – Sec2 – Regulation of Commercial Space Tourism – Risks, Liabilities and Security Issues – Insurance Requirements and Waivers – Ownership of Space Objects – United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) Resolution – The Next Fifty Years of Outer Space Treaty

MODULE – VII: Settlement of Disputes and Enforcement of International Space Law

- a) International Responsibility for Space Activities – Liability and responsibility regime under the Outer Space Treaty
- b) Absolute liability and fault liability – COSMOS 954 – A case study – State liability/responsibility for space activities by Non – Governmental Entities
- c) Article X of the Liability Convention – Article VII of Outer Space Treaty – ICJ – Arbitration and Mediation – Permanent Court of Arbitration (PCA) – Optional Rules for Arbitration of Disputes Relating to Outer Space Activities, 2011

MODULE – VIII: The Intersection of Human Rights and Space

- a) Freedom of Exploration and Use of Space – Peaceful Purposes – International State Responsibility
- b) Status of Humans in Space – Ethical code for Human Activity in Space – Morality, Rights and Responsibilities in Outer Space – Access to Space for All
- c) Sustainable Space Development – UN COPUOS – Guidelines for Long Term Sustainability

INTERNATIONAL LAW OF ORGANISATIONS

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

The successful transformation of the United Nations Organization (UN) from political to legal to global institution on the basis of Principle of Universal Membership has indeed elevated the international law of organisation as an integral part of modern international law. Moreover, the regime of Article 103 under the Charter of the UN reaffirms the supremacy of the Charter obligations in the contemporary international affairs. International Institutions are working on varied specialised fields of international law; such as Humanitarian, International Settlement of Disputes, Labour, Human Rights, Trade, Environment, International Crimes, Maritime, and Intellectual Property Rights influence international life, international policy making, maintenance of peace and security and resolution of international disputes. In sum, the welfare of the human family. Thus, the current universal international legal system is effectively represented by the international, inter – governmental and regional organisations. This course aims to facilitate the students to study and understand the impact of the International Organisations in the establishment of universal legal order and system.

After undergoing the study, the Student will be able to understand the following:

- The foundational perspectives on the international element of crimes vis a vis criminological pattern.
- The evolutionary jurisprudence on the substantive and procedural aspects of international crimes.

PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT OF INTERNATIONAL DISPUTES

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

The complex character of human egos as per the laws of nature leads to frictions among the human family and as a result the institution of Justice becomes integral in every society. The contemporary State led international legal system due to conflicts of power and denial of mutual acceptance has resulted in the increase of international disputes on matters pertaining to differences arising inter alia out of legal interest over boundary, sharing of natural resources, immunity to sovereign heads, conservation of environment, protection of human rights, diplomatic relations, international legal obligations on nuclear disarmament and State responsibility for the commission of international crimes, Accordingly, to settle the frictions various international settlement mechanisms and judicial bodies are established. Vitality, the interests and welfare of human family constitutes the heart of all these disputes. Therefore, the relevance of implementing the Principle of Peaceful Settlement of International Disputes warrants high level of respect and compliance. This course will facilitate the Students to learn the international law on dispute settlement management as a tool for achieving international justice.

PAPER – VIII

INTERNATIONAL HUMANITARIAN AND REFUGEE LAW

(Discipline Specific Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

International Humanitarian Law has developed to a greater extent in the past two centuries. The addition of non – international conflicts and protection of natural resources added new frontiers. However, IHL is also facing new threats from Artificial Intelligence to Space programmes. In this context, the students shall understand the content and relevance of IHL in this course. The 1951 Refugee Convention and its 1967 Protocol contain less than 60 articles. Attempts to provide a more ambitious and more comprehensive treaty – law framework has failed. India is not a party and the compliance by the accepted countries is also frustrating. In this background, refugee law assumes importance for the students.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following

- The nature and scope of IHL and refugee law in international and national sphere.
- complications involved in monitoring and enforcing IHL.
- Role of courts in the international and national systems to appreciate these laws.
- Indian approach to IHL and refugee law.

TRANSBOUNDARY WATERCOURSES LAW

(Generic Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

This course is intended to provide broader knowledge and understanding to the students on the law relating to transboundary watercourses. The term ‘watercourses’ includes rivers and lakes. The idea of ‘transboundary’ is usually limited to international boundaries. However, in the water law context, the term ‘transboundary’ means all sorts of political boundaries including inter – state watercourses. Globally, River management and dispute settlement played a vital role in defining international relations and law. In the past 200 years, federal courts and tribunals enhanced the scope of this branch with a close interface between international and interstate dispute settlement of watercourses. Thus, this course provides a unique opportunity for the students to learn the nuances of interstate and international water law.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following

- To comprehend a basis understanding about water as a resource, and its impact on legal systems.
- To master the basis legal principles of transboundary water law.
- To study the national and international legal regimes relating to watercourses.

INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL LAW

(Generic Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Since the inception of mankind, the egoistic patterns of human life unleashed violence resulted in the case of humans destructing fellow human beings itself. Exceptionally, the promotion of evil ideology to rule the world on the basis of artificial racist supremacy by the humans across time and space, to state, the Nazist led Germanisation, the European Colonial System and similar Statist led Nationalism and Regionalism based Ideologies have threatened the existence of human kind on earth itself. The criminal behaviour of such gross dehumanization and genocidal violence has resulted in the need for establishing a specific field of knowledge known as International Criminal Law (ICL). Thus, ICL is devoted to the study of the subjective element of international criminal behaviour aimed at the prevention of the commission of international crimes and thereby establish universal peace and justice amongst human societies. Hence, the course work will introduce to the students the foundational perspectives of international crimes, its evolutionary character, contemporary challenges and remedies towards rehumanisation.

After undergoing the study, the Student will be able to understand the following:

- The foundational perspectives on the international element of crimes vis a vis criminological pattern.
- The evolutionary jurisprudence on the substantive and procedural aspects of international crimes.
- The impact of ad hoc and permanent international criminal justice delivery systems.

FROM ACADEMIC YEAR 2020-2021

DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR LAW AND ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR LAW AND ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

The Department of Labour Law and Administrative Law of the Tamil Nadu Dr. Ambedkar Law University, Chennai, was established in the year 2013, as the VIII branch of specialized study in the University. The University established this crucial Department of Labour Law and Administrative Law in recognition of the increasingly critical role and overweening importance of these disciplines in all branches of economic life, from unorganized labour to Constitutionally mandated employees and services. This Department has been one of the most active departments in the University, with its constant focus on research, learning and education; conducting national workshops and special lectures; actively participating in national and international workshops, seminars and conferences; and, above all, furthering the knowledge and research bases of labour law in India.

Economic growth is fueled not only by capital and big corporations, but by the sweat, blood and tears of its employees and workers. The effort to protect the rights of every individual, especially those who are disadvantaged and unable to assert their rights, is a cornerstone of labour law in a welfare state like India. A plethora of labour legislations have been enacted in India to ensure the highest possible standards of health, safety, and welfare of workers; to protect workers against oppressive terms and conditions of service; to protect workers from being exploited for their economic weakness and poor bargaining power; to encourage and facilitate workers in their organization into unions; to deal with industrial disputes; to enforce social insurance and labour welfare schemes and alike. It is impossible to have a strong and healthy economy, without strong and protective labour legislations.

India is in a unique position in history as a major economy poised to become a superpower. At the same time, the COVID pandemic, technology, automation, and “work-from-home” are changing the future of the work landscape. The syllabus of the Department of Labour Law and Administrative Law has been re-designed with effect from the academic year 2020-21 with these twin ideals in mind – a thorough knowledge of the basics and the training required to take labour law into the future – while championing, at all times the principle of worker protection. This is achieved through a combination of theory, judicial precedents, and practical approaches – captured through 6 Specialized Core Papers, 3 Discipline Specific Elective papers and 2 Generic Elective papers which will be studied over 4 semesters in 2 Years (CBCS system).

It is critical to have a thorough grounding in the law governing industrial relations and governance; laws on unionization and collective bargaining; protecting workers from unfair labour practices; protection of occupational health, safety and welfare of employees; industrial discipline; and laws relating to wages and of social security legislations. Indian laws are enacted in a global context, including ILO directives. Labour law is implemented by administrative officials and quasi-judicial bodies, local governments and regulatory mechanisms. It is critical to understand administrative law, and the basic principles of natural justice, judicial review, the administrative processes, the importance of eschewing all arbitrariness; and liabilities for violations. This must extend up to the single largest Constitutionally mandated workforce in India – the civil services. Labour law stems from basic human rights, which form the heart and soul of labour legislations. Migrant rights, the rights of labourers in the unorganized sector and vulnerable workers must always form the central core of labour legislation’s philosophy.

Labour law is a dynamic and constantly evolving subject with a multitude of facets and bylanes for students to explore. A mastery of this subject makes the student invaluable to industries; to workers and labourers; to human rights organisations; to trade unions and employee organisations; to the governments at the Centre and the States; to administrative authorities charged with implementing these laws; to research organisations and think tanks; and to the workforce at large. Students will be poised to contribute meaningfully and thoughtfully to this field in flux, shape debates and provide direction to the future of work and work-related legislations.

PAPER - II
LAW AND POLICY OF SOCIAL SECURITY
(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

A crucial linchpin of any welfare state is its Social Security law. The concept of social security is based on ideas of human dignity and social justice. According to the International Labour Organisation, social security is the protection that society provides to individuals and households to (a) guarantee income security, particularly in cases of old age, unemployment, sickness, invalidity, work injury, maternity or loss of a breadwinner; and (b) ensure access to healthcare. This is a protective form of social security. Another aspect of social security is to provide a broad system of support for all those who, for whatever reasons, are unable to maintain themselves, in order to ensure that every individual can attain and maintain a decent standard of life. This is a preventive or promotional form of social security.

The concept and aspiration of social security is enshrined in the Indian Constitution. These ideals are further embodied in various statutes and a plethora of administrative measures. These prove that the Indian government, Central and State, consider social security to be a critical objective to be achieved in the democratic process.

This course shall examine the various dimensions of labour security measures and explore the role of labour security in a comprehensive and integrated social security.

- Enable students to comprehend a global perspective of social security, with specific emphasis being laid on the principles expounded by the International Labour Organisation and a comparative study of the approaches in UK, USA and India.
- Provide students with a deep understanding of the laws which provide compensation to employees for workplace accidents, and the underlying principles and doctrines of injuries “Arising out of and in the course of employment”, “Notional extension of Employer’s Premises, Doctrine of added peril” etc..
- Explore, in depth, the state insurance scheme for employees, benefits available, conditions for such benefits etc. Study various forms of social security and labour welfare laws passed with the sole aim of ameliorating the lives of workers (such as maternity benefit, gratuity etc.)

- Analyse the concept and law of provident funds, which is a form of social security to breadwinners, and allied concepts such as Superannuation Pension, Invalidation Pension, Family Pension and Deposit-Linked Insurance.

PAPER - III
ADMINISTRATIVE PROCESS AND LIABILITY

(Specialized Core Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

The Administrative explosion of the 19th century in the common law world brought in new norms of relationship between the state and its citizens. In due course, the continental strategies of control over administration had their influence. Along with this the civil service and administrative agencies gained more and more importance when the state launched welfare programmes and became the guardian of the rights of individuals. The standards of administrative behaviour are moulded and supported through constitutional values in the lands of constitutional sovereignty. Necessarily, a student of law relating to administration should get a deep knowledge of the operation and changing phenomena of these standards from a comparative angle. This is so especially in the wake of technological revolution and its aftermath on the administration.

Judicial decisions in the common law world have formulated several duties and liabilities on the administrative hierarchy towards the citizens. Is the state in exercise of sovereign functions liable to compensate the affected persons? To what extent is the state in exercise of sovereign functions immune from liability? The state enters into contracts in more ways than one. Should there be standards of conduct laid down on the state when it does so? How can accountability be determined in all these areas? Open government is one of the significant attributes of good government in democracy. In what way these norms can be meticulously followed by the state in meting out administrative justice. There are problems a country like India does confront in her march towards good governance.

This course has been designed to:

- Understand the historical development of the concept of administrative law and the evolution and current status of administrative law in civil and common law countries, such as UK, USA, France and India;
- Critically analyse the concept, growth and controls over delegated legislation; Examine the need and reason for the growth of discretionary powers and the ground and extent of judicial review.

- Elucidate the basic requirements of procedural fairness and natural justice in administrative procedures; Detail the remedies available for maladministration and the role of ombudsmen in a comparative perspective.
- Create a broad understanding of State accountability and enumerate the doctrine of promissory estoppel and legitimate expectation and its position in UK, USA and India.

PAPER - VII
LAW AND SERVICE JURISPRUDENCE
(Discipline Specific Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

It has long been an axiom that government service is not merely a contract but a status. The Indian civil service and the appointment of civil servants are constitutionally mandated processes and events which flow from one of the foundational basic features of the Constitution, Separation of Powers. A Specialist in Labour and Administrative law is entrusted with the unique responsibility of ensuring that they are well versed in these Constitutionally enshrined laws. A Master's student of Labour and Administrative Law must be in a position to critically analyse, assess and understand legal developments regarding Civil Servants in India, while also being able to place these developments in their appropriate global and comparative context. Service law jurisprudence in India traces its genesis to British and American law.

This specialist course focuses on the civil servants, their recruitment and promotion, conditions of service, special category of services and settlement of disputes in Service matters, both in India and through a comparative lens.

This course has been designed to:

- Analyse in-depth the Constitutional mandate governing civil services, along with precedents, doctrines (including the Doctrine of Pleasure) and their limitations; and principles of natural justice;*
- Provide a detailed picture of the recruitment and promotion guidelines and understand the rules governing conditions of service, which is critical to promote transparency and public participation;*
- To study, with specific emphasis, the law governing recruitment, promotion, conditions of service and disciplinary action for Judicial Officers and civil servants related to judicial services;*
- Introduce the student to certain special categories of services and laws applicable to them; Place Indian service laws in a global and comparative context; Elucidate dispute settlement mechanisms.*

PAPER - VIII
LAW RELATING TO OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY, HEALTH AND WORKING CONDITIONS

(Discipline Specific Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

The Ministry of Labour & Employment's mandates under the Allocation of Business Rules includes, among other things, occupational safety and health. The Ministry's Industrial Safety and Health branch discharges the overall functions of policy-making and laying down guidelines for, inter alia, ensuring occupational safety and health of workers. The principal objective of Occupational Health and Safety is the establishment of a preventive safety and health culture in the country through elimination of work-related injuries, diseases, fatalities, disasters and to enhance the well-being of employees in all the sectors of economic activity in the country. Cognizant of the importance of such legislations, India has multiple laws protecting occupational health and safety, several of which were first enacted over half a century ago.

The Factories Act, 1948 (amended, over time, in 1954, 1976, 1987 and 1990); The Mines Act, 1952, Other Construction Workers (Regulations of Employment and Conditions of Service) Act, 1996, The Beedi And Cigar Workers (Conditions of Employment) Act, 1966, The Building and Other Construction Workers (Regulation of Employment And Conditions of Service) Act, 1996 – all of these are India's leading laws relating to occupational health and safety. A thorough understanding of these laws will help a Master's student in labour law handle concerns relating to occupational health and safety in every domain.

This course is designed to help students understand and deep-dive into the measures taken to improve just and humane conditions of work by improving occupational safety and health.

This course has been designed to:

- Trace the historical development on the concept of occupational safety and health, including the role played by the twin stalwarts of the International Labour Organisation and the World Health Organisation;*
- Understand the various national and state level organisations that are dedicated to achieving and maintaining occupational safety and health of workers; and Analyse, through a comparative lens, the measures to ensure occupational health and safety adopted by other countries, especially, USA and UK;*
- Explore the key legislations in India dealing with occupational safety and health (specifically, the national, sector-agnostic legislation of Factories Act, 1948; as well as* sector-specific laws such as The Mines Act, 1952, The Building & Other Construction Workers (Regulations of Employment and Conditions of Service) Act, 1996, The Beedi And Cigar Workers (Conditions of Employment) Act, 1966, The Building and Other Construction Workers (Regulation of Employment And Conditions of Service) Act, 1996;

- Elucidate the various mechanisms to ensure compliance with occupational safety and health requirements and to improve awareness and provide training.

PAPER - XI

LAW OF LOCAL GOVERNANCE AND REGULATORY MECHANISM

(Generic Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

With the introduction of the Constitution seventy third and seventy fourth amendments, India moved towards the ideal of direct democracy endowing the local bodies with powers of administration in matters of regional and local importance. This change has added new vistas of Indian democracy and it offers an opportunity to translate the Gandhian concept of Gram Swaraj into practice. Necessarily, a person specializing in administrative law has to be equipped with the knowledge on the working of early systems, the present constitutional scheme, and the legislative powers of the State transferring responsibility to local bodies and on the increasing regulatory and financial powers of the local bodies. The nature of the democratic functioning of these elected bodies and the scope of administrative control as well of the judicial control over them are challenging areas for students of administrative law to evaluate and help formulation of new and pragmatic working methods. After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the:

- Genesis and Constitutionality of the scheme for the Local Self-Government (LSG)

SCHOOL OF EXCELLENCE IN LAW

FROM ACADEMIC YEAR 2020-2021

DEPARTMENT OF TAXATION LAW

DEPARTMENT OF TAXATION LAW

The Department of Taxation Law of the Tamil Nadu Dr. Ambedkar Law University, Chennai, was established in the year 2015, as the IX branch of specialized study in the University. The University established this Department of Taxation Law in recognition of the growing importance of this discipline in almost all branches of economic life.

Tax has been a major source of revenue from times immemorial. From the early civilisations to the current century, tax has played a vital role in effectively running the government(s) intact. Relevance of the subject can never be undermined or ignored even in the contemporary era, as tax still holds its importance unimpaired.

The syllabus of the Department of Taxation Law has been re-designed with effect from the academic year 2020-21, with the only goal to provide a thorough knowledge of the basic-in-depth ideas of the subject. This is achieved through a combination of theory, judicial precedents, and practical approaches – captured through 6 Specialized Core Papers, 3 Discipline Specific Elective papers and 2 Generic Elective papers which will be studied over 4 semesters in 2 Years (CBCS system). The subjects offered by the Department has been framed in such a way keeping in mind the importance of tax, both nationally and globally. An insight into the subjects offered, would enable the students understand and apply the tax laws for the betterment of themselves and the society as a whole.

Globalisation has also opened the doors for new tax issues at the international level in the form of transfer pricing, tax havens, etc. Whether the people know it or not they are paying taxes every single day, which unarguably proves the importance of studying tax laws. Apart from this, introduction of new tax regime(s) and the method(s) of paying taxes have opened avenues for much interpretation, which once again marks the importance of the subject and its relevance as it stands today.

The subject of tax laws is inherently complicated and are subjected to constant refinement through new legislations, rules, regulations, circulars, notifications, annual budget and judicial precedents from time to time. The subject keeps evolving from time to time and makes itself interesting in every aspect of change thereby keeping the urge to learn this subject closely knit.

PAPER IV
LAW OF INTERNATIONAL TAXATION

(Specialized Core paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

Globalisation has opened gates for numerous cross-border investments. This initially created lots of confusion and uncertainty as to which jurisdiction has the taxing authority and it even paved way for double taxation and in certain cases avoidance of tax. To curb this the International context of taxation aims to ensure that each country receives an equitable share of tax revenues from cross-border transactions.

This course has been designed to:

- Introduce the basis of International Taxation,
- Enable the students to understand the importance of Domestic provisions in International Taxation,

COMPARATIVE TAX LAWS

(Specialized Core paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

In the era of globalisation, not only investments have become cross-border, the movement of people from one country to another country for the purposes of employment and profession has seen huge growth. It embarks the need to study and understand the basics of another jurisdiction's tax laws so as to enable the expatriates be aware of their tax rights and liabilities. Apart from that, the recent GST in India which in its infant stage is undergoing numerous changes was borrowed from Canada and Singapore. This calls for a need to study the working of this system of tax in the so-called mother countries.

This course has been designed to:

- Enable the students understand the direct taxes as they exist in the US and the UK,
- Enlighten them with the knowledge to compare the direct taxes of India with the US and the UK (countries which attract more Indian expats),
- Enable the students understand the indirect taxes as they exist in Canada and Singapore, and
- Enlighten them to compare the GST in India with Canada and Singapore (which were useful in framing the Indian GST Laws).

PAPER VII
CORPORATE GOVERNANCE AND TAXATION

(Discipline Specific Elective Paper)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE

Corporates play a vital role in the economic development of a country. Corporate tax is one highly concentrated areas of taxation, especially for developing countries like India, where alternative revenue sources are thin. Corporation taxes are very progressive, and they raise significant sums of money for public services. Globalisation helps a corporate giant place foot in many jurisdictions, where they are to pay tax based on source principle. Thus, attracting corporate investments becomes important. Countries offer tax incentives to attract global investments with an aim to develop the economy.

This course has been designed to:

- Understand the importance of the tax implications of corporate sectors,
- Enable them to understand the provisions of taxation as they exist in the direct and indirect tax regime made especially applicable to corporates,
- Enlighten them on the International aspects of taxing corporates, and
- Provide insight into the procedural compliances to be followed by the corporates.

COURSE – III

TECHNO LEGAL ASPECTS OF CYBER SPACE

(Hard Core Course - III)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Technology interacts with social, economic and legal frameworks to set the basic affordances and constraints of human activity over time. The most significant present transformation revolves about computers and the emergence of the networked information economy. These new technological and economic conditions are creating new forms of production and new forms of social behavior that are fundamentally altering the way we know the world, how we learn about how the world. It is important that we know this transformation and understands it in political as well as economic terms. Exploring The Law and Technology Relationship is a significant aspect to learn in this era.

With this objective the course is designed to

- Understand the rise of technology and advancements in this century
- Produce a clarity in the application of technological aspects in Judiciary
- Focus on the convergence of law and technology, its impact over upcoming generation
- Develop a sense of responsibility in tech legal world as a citizen
- Create a Prospective career in E - Law and its tributaries

COURSE OUTLINE

Module I: Cyber Space - Nature and Framework

- a. Cyber Space - Evolution of Cyber Jurisprudence
- b. Distinction between Conventional Crime and Cyber Crime

Module II: Cyber Crimes - Detailed Outline

- a. Computer Source Code - Cyber Pornography - Cyber Security - Cyber Terrorism
- b. Data Privacy & confidentiality - Digital Signature
- c. Intermediaries - Malware - Other Computer related offences - Unauthorized Access - Violation of privacy - IP Theft
- d. Impersonation - Cyber corporate frauds - Internet frauds and financial crimes - Cyber-Smearing - Interception of communication and theft of commercial data.

Module III: Law and Technology - The Blended Mechanism

- a. Frontiers in Artificial Intelligence - Fundamental Rights in cyberspace - Consumer Rights in the Online Environment
- b. Resolving Legal Complexity - Alternate Dispute Resolution - Online Dispute Resolution
- c. Legal and Ethical Aspects of Artificial Intelligence

Module IV: Judicial Framework

- a. Alternate Dispute Resolution - Online Dispute Resolution
- b. Development of E - Courts - Access to E - Courts - Procedural Impediments
- c. Awareness and Educational Programme on Tech - Legal Mechanism -Pandemic and Issues of Cyber Space

Module V: Convergence of Technical and Legal Aspects of Cyber Space

- a. Growth of Education in Cyber Space - Menace of Digital Piracy - Copyright in Cyber Space
- Measures to Combat
- b. Role of Technology in Economy - E – Contracts - Digital and E – Commerce Markets
- c. Cyber Warfare - Technical Protection and Stealing of Information - Information Warfare

LEARNING OUTCOME

After completion of the course students will be able to

- Develop strategy, policy, advocacy in cybercrimes related technology and regulations.
- Develop and grow as cybercrime experts in corporations, law firms, and companies
- Expertise as forensically sound in legal matters in various courts.
- Analyse and Apply knowledge of electronic data during investigation and examination in legal matters.

COMPUTER FORENSICS

(Hard Core Course - VI)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Cyber forensics, also known as computer forensics, which is a subdivision of digital forensic science, relating to evidence detection in computers and digital storage media. The purpose of cyber forensics is the forensically-sound investigation of digital media with the intent to: identify, preserve, recover, analyze, present facts, and opinions; concerning the digital information. Even though it is generally allied with the analysis of cyber-based crimes, computer forensics may also be used in civil proceedings. Evidence composed from cyber forensic analysis is typically subjected to similar procedures and performs as supplementary digital evidence. With these advancements, it was desired that cyber forensics be to protect users and remain citizen-centric.

With this objective the course is designed to

- Expertise with the knowledge on investigation of cyber offenses and online frauds and combating procedures.
- Proficiency in various techniques to mitigate the complexities associated with cyber threats.
- Understand the impact of cyber forensics in societal development.
- Explore professional career prospects in the field of cyber forensics
- Recognize the new policy regulations in the nation which focuses on cyber forensics and its development

COURSE OUTLINE

Module I: Artificial Intelligence and Law

- a. Evolution of Cyber Forensics - Introduction to Cyber Forensics - Overview of types of Computer Forensics
- b. Network Forensics - Mobile Forensics, and E-mail Forensics - Cloud Forensics - Database Forensics - Services offered by Digital Forensics - Role of First Responder
- c. Identity Management Security Systems - Identity Theft - Biometric Security Systems

Module II: Cyber Forensics and Computer Crimes

- a. Online based Cyber Crimes - Phishing and its Variants - Web Spoofing and E-mail Spoofing
- b. Cyber Stalking - Web defacement - Financial Crimes - ATM and Card Crimes - Spamming - Commercial espionage - Commercial Extortion online - Money Laundering - Software and Hardware Piracy
- c. Cyber Terrorism - Online Sale of Drugs - Online Sale of Arms - Crime-as-a-Service (C-aa-S)
- Ransomware - Criminal misuse of Data - Cyber-attack on Core Banking System - Dark Net Crime

Module III: Cyber Forensics - Evidentiary Aspects from Techno - Legal Perspective

- a. Extraction of Evidence - Examination - Organisation of Evidence - Admissibility of Forensic Evidence In Digital Format In A Legal Court In India - In Shafi Mohammad v. The State of Himachal Pradesh - Twentieth century Film Fox Corporation v. NRI Film Production Association (Pvt) Ltd.
- b. Cyber Forensics Investigation - Managing the Digital Crime Scene - Data Recovery - Role of the Computer Forensics Analyst in Court
- c. Forensics in social media - Search and Seizure - Evidence in the form of e-mails, internet history, documents or other files related to crimes such as murder, kidnapping, fraud and drug trafficking
- d. Role of Cyber Forensics in Intellectual Property Theft - Industrial Espionage - Internet Fraud - Electronic Forgery - Impediments in Cyber Forensic Investigation in India

Module IV: Jurisdiction on Cyber Forensics Arena

- a. Section 75 of Information technology Act ,2000 - Section 178 & 179 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 65B (4) of Indian Evidence Act 1872
- b. SIL Import V. Exim Aides Silk Importers - Asahi metal industry co. v. Supreme court - Complexity in deciding the territorial jurisdiction of cyberspace as the user can access website at any place in the world
- c. Adjudication - E Courts (Electronic courts) - Online Dispute Resolution (ODR)

Module V: Role of Cyber Security in India

- a. Sec 66 - Information Technology (Amendment) Act, 2008 - NASSCOM - Data Security Council of India (DSCI))

- b. Cyber Security Task Force - National E-Governance Plan (NeGP)
- c. Role of CBI - Cyber Crimes Research and Development Unit (CCRDU) - Cyber Crime Investigation Cell (CCIC) - Cyber Forensics Laboratory - Network Monitoring Centre.
- d. Need for uniformity in Cyber Security Control and Enforcement Practices - Dilipkumar Tulsidas v. Union of India

Module VI: International Approach towards Cyber Forensics

- a. Role of Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), CIA, NSA, and GCHQ - Regional Computer Forensic Laboratory
- b. Position in UK - The five-year National Cyber Security Strategy - Centre for the Protection of National Infrastructure (CPNI) - National Cyber Security Centre -
- c. The International Society of Forensic Computer Examiners (ISFCE) - Cyberspace Regulations and Role of UN
- d. Council of Europe's Convention on Cybercrime - Budapest Convention.

Module VII: Impact of Cyber Forensics in Society and Individual

- a. Ethics of Cyber Forensics in India - Impact of Cybercrimes - To the Individual - Corporate and Companies - Government and the Nation
- b. Right to Privacy in Cyber Forensics and Cyber Security - Data Theft - Constitutional Mandate - Aadhar Card Case - Justice K.S. Puttaswamy v Union of India

Module VIII: Growing Challenges and Future Paradigm in Cyber Forensics

- a. Insufficient Cyber Forensic Laboratories - Lack of Cyber Crime Police Stations (CCPS) – Cyber Courts - Cyber Crime Investigation & Forensic Training Facilities - Centres of Excellence in Cyber Forensic in all major cities
- b. Absence of universally coherent accepted guidelines in digital forensics
- c. Legal and Judicial Reforms - Proposal of National Litigation Policy of India (NLPI)

COURSE – VII

DIGITAL EVIDENCE

(DISCIPLINE ELECTIVE COURSE - I)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Digital evidence as a form of physical evidence creates several challenges for forensic examiners. It's a different form of evidence that can be difficult to handle. On the other hand, fortunately digital evidence has several features that mitigate the problem technically and legally.

With this objective the course is designed to

- Identify and correctly define the instances for the application of computer forensics - digital evidence
- To understand the laws and ethics by which digital evidence is governed in our country and worldwide.
- Consider the role of the regulating bodies in identification and application of digital evidence
- Understand and evaluate how these cyber forensics impacts the financial and other legislation

COURSE OUTLINE

Module I: Digital Evidence - Nature and Source

- a. Sources - Standards for Collecting and Handling Digital Evidence
- b. Presentation - Admissibility of Digital Evidence in Court
- c. Integrity, Discovery, and Disclosure of Digital Evidence
- d. Constitutional Validity - The Nature and Challenges of Digital Evidence

Module II: Digital Evidence - Indian Perspective

- a. Law relating to Digital Evidence in India - Electronic Evidence and the Indian Evidence Act 1872 - Amendments in Evidence Act - Sec 2A - Sec 2(3) - Changes in the Banker's Book Evidence Act, 1891
- b. Sec 172 - 175 - Sec 463 - Sec 465 - Changes in Indian Penal Code, 1860 - 45 A - Information Technology Act, 2000 - Section 79A of the IT(Amendment) Act, 2008

- c. Recent rulings of Indian courts on Digital Evidence - State of Punjab v. Amritsar Beverages Ltd - Evidence recorded on to CD In the case of Jagjit Singh v. State of Haryana (2006) - Parliament Attack Case
- d. Admissibility of intercepted telephone calls - The case of State (NCT of Delhi) v. Navjot Sandhu, (2005) - whether a hard disk of a computer can be considered as documentary Evidence - Dharambir Vs. CBI - Call Records: In Rakesh Kumar and Ors. Vs. State
- e. Examination of a witness by Video Conference - The State of Maharashtra v. Dr. Praful B Desai, 2003

Module III: Electronic Evidence and the Indian Supreme Court

- a. Som Prakash vs. State of Delhi - Admissibility of Electronic Evidence - State vs. Mohd. Afzal And Ors
- b. Anvar vs. Basheer - Section 65B of the Evidence Act - special provision governs digital evidence - 'lex specialis derogat legi generali'
- c. Ratan Tata v. Union of India - CD containing intercepted telephone calls was introduced in the Supreme Court without following the procedure laid down under section 65B of the Evidence Act

Module IV: Digital Evidence and Cloud Forensics - Comparative Study

- a. Digital Forensic Investigation - Digital Evidence in the Cloud - The Emergence of Cloud Storage - Existing Legal Frameworks for Capturing Digital Evidence in the Cloud - Legal Challenges for Cloud Forensics
- b. The USA Legal Framework - Microsoft Ireland case.
- c. European Legal Framework - The Group of Eight (G8) - Principles on Transborder Access to Stored Computer Data - Principles on Accessing Data Stored in a Foreign State
- d. Law Enforcement Authorities - Co-operation with service providers

Module V: IT ACT 2000 & ADMINISTRATIVE IMPLICATIONS

- a. Digital Signature Certificates - Securing Electronic records - Duties of Subscribers - Role of Certifying Authorities - Regulators under the Act
- b. The Cyber Regulations Appellate Tribunal - Internet Service Providers and their Liability - Powers of Police under the Act - Impact of the Act on other Laws
- c. E -Taxation issues - E - Contract issues and Digital Evidence

- d. Financial Amendments and Digital Evidence - Income-tax Act, 1961 - Finance Act, 2001 - Finance Act, 2002 Finance Act, 2009 - Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934

Module VI: Digital Evidence Legislation on Major Countries - The Comparison

- a. United States: Uniform Electronic Transactions Act, 1999 - United Kingdom: Electronic Communications Act 2000 - UK Electronic Signatures Regulation 2002
- b. Canada - Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act, (PIPEDA), 2004
- c. Australia - Electronic Transactions Act 1999 - European Union: European Directive 199/93/EC on Digital Signature laws
- d. South Africa - Electronic Communications Act, 2005

Module VII: Digital Evidence - International Scenario

- a. Article 1 - Section 3.1.1 of the Budapest Convention on Cybercrime
- b. Power of Disposal - United Nations Commission on International Trade Law (UNCITRAL) model Law on Digital Evidence
- c. Legal Standard of Admissibility of Evidence - In Purview of International Criminal Court (ICC) - Rule 69(4) of the ICC Rules of Procedure and Evidence - Probative Value & Evidentiary Weight of Evidence - The Bemba Case
- d. Evidentiary Considerations of Digital Evidence - Prosecutor v. Bagosora

Module VIII: Digital Evidence - The Challenges Ahead

- a. Old procedural guarantees vs. new digital evidence processes
- b. Unaddressed threats to fairness and the presumption of innocence - Inappropriate use of poorly tested technology undermines the right to a fair trial
- c. Difficulties in Search and seizure of Physical Evidence vs. Digital Evidence
- d. The sanctity and relevance of Digital Evidence - The Retrieval Mechanism: Physical vs. Logical - Reliability Crisis in Digital Forensics

LEARNING OUTCOME

After completion of the course students will be able to

- Understand the Nature of Electronic Information and the devices and software used to create, store, retrieve and present it.
- Understand and discuss the legislation governing Digital Evidence and its impact in the society
- Critically interpret the shortcomings of the legislation and the need for new changes
- Increase the proficiency in analysing digital evidence admissibility issues and the cases concerned
- Gain clarity of how evidentiary issues are affected when material is in an electronic form and current updated changes across the globe.

COURSE – VIII

TRANSNATIONAL CYBERCRIMES

(Discipline Elective Course - II)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

Today in the epoch of technology, all aspects of a life including professional, personal, finance & educational are gravitating towards digitalization. Because of this heavy dependency on computers and other similar computing devices and networks, we store and transmit profuse data on regular basis which creates the aspect of cyberspace which is more vulnerable to cyber-attacks. This course explains Transnational Cybercrimes and the need for Cyber Security in a robust manner.

With this objective the course is designed to

- Identify the emerging legal issues in a digital networked environment including issues of jurisdiction and enforcement of rights and liabilities in cyberspace
- Consider the role of the regulating bodies in identifying and combating transnational cybercrimes.
- Identify and analyse recent developments in national and global law-making policies of cybercrimes
- Understand and evaluate how these developing concepts affect the flow of information in society and the techno legal framework for regulating the crimes.

COURSE OUTLINE

Module I: The Transnational Nature of Cyber Crime

- a. The Global Landscape of Cybersecurity - “Lex loci delicti” rule - Cybercrimes - Extraterritorial aspects
- b. Cybercrime regulation challenges - State and Transnational laws versus Global laws

Module II: Transnational Cyber Crimes - Jurisdictional Framework

- a. Jurisdiction - Cause of Action - Legislative Enforcement - Adjudicative Jurisdiction
- b. Indian Context of Jurisdiction - International position of Jurisdiction in Cybercrimes - Internet Jurisdiction
- c. Overcoming Jurisdictional Challenges - Foreign Judgments - The need for a global response to a multi-jurisdictional crime - Dispute Settlement - Victim Management

Module III: Cyber Crimes Scenario in India

- a. Cyber Digital Piracy - Nation's Piracy - Funding transnational organized crime networks trade in counterfeit and pirated products
- b. Sony. Sambandh.com case- 1st cybercrime conviction in India - The Bank NSP Case – Satya v. Teja Singh
- c. Cyber Defamation - SMC Pneumatics (India) Pvt. Ltd. v. Jogesh Kwatra - Google India Pvt. Ltd. vs. Visaka Industries Limited
- d. Dangerous Offenders and Vulnerable Victims - Disparities in National Laws of Protection and Cooperation

Module IV: Cyber Terrorism, Hacktivism and National Security

- a. The Transnational Dimension of Cyber Terrorism - Nation's security - Hacktivism - Use of Internet for Anti-Social Activities - Parliament Attack Case
- b. Affecting Trust - Cyber War - Internet - Offensive Information Warfare - State-Sponsorship to Cyber Terrorism
- c. Cyber Policing - Role of Interpol - Utilization of INTERPOL - Cybercrime Collaborative Platform
- d. National Computer Emergency Response Teams (CERTs) - Implementation of Prevention Measures and Awareness

Module V: Cyber Theft of Intellectual Property

- a. Transnational Cybercrime Groups vs Exploitation of Intellectual Property Protection Trademark Counterfeiting - Casio India Co. Ltd. v. Ashita Tele Systems Pvt. Ltd - Theft of Trade Secrets
- b. Cyber Piracy - Copyright Violations - Impact on Education and Economy
- c. Harmonization of Intellectual Property Laws with Organized Cyber Crime Laws - Within a Single Nation

Module VI: Financial Transnational Cybercrime and Narco -Terrorism

- a. Corruption - Money Laundering - Threat to the Economy - Nation's Competitiveness - Strategic Market
- b. Narco - Trafficking - Narco Terrorism - Organized Cybercrimes related to Drugs – UNODC - Challenges to Social Stability - Need for robust techno - legal system

Module VII: International Law Implications on Transnational Cybercrimes

- a. United Nations Human Rights Council's resolution - "The Promotion, Protection and Enjoyment of Human Rights on the Internet." - Role of the Internet in worldwide human rights protection - Concept of Dark Net
- b. United Nations Convention Against Transnational Organized Crime (TOCC) - U.N. Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC)
- c. Regulation of the Internet and Net Neutrality - National government's responsibility on allowing their citizens free access to and use of the Internet - Responsibility of State
- d. United Nations Security Council - Special Notices regarding terrorism

Module VIII: Cyber Security and Futuristic Challenges

- a. Cyber Crimes and Covid Pandemic - Growing Human Trafficking - Building Enforcement Capacity - combating IP theft - training and technical assistance
- b. Networks and Netwars - The Future of Terror, Crime, and Militancy
- c. Technology and Terrorism - The New Threat for the Millennium - The Information Revolution and National Security
- d. Cybercrime Epidemic - Not an IT issue - Impact on Society - Nation's Development - Nation's Privacy and Data Protection Laws

LEARNING OUTCOME

After completion of the course students will be able to –

- Identify and analyse challenges of a theoretical and practical nature regarding the legal response to transnational cybercrime.
- Understand and discuss the limits of the law regarding transnational cybercrime and post- conflict situations.
- Independently and critically interpret and apply relevant sources of cyber legislation in India
- Examine various doctrines and precedents in resolving the emerging disputes.
- Understand and reflect on social dilemmas that may arise in the field of transnational cybercrimes and deal with these in a responsible and comprehensive manner.

COURSE – IX

CYBERSPACE AND TELECOMMUNICATION: LEGAL AND SECURITY ISSUES

(Discipline Elective - III)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

The impact of cyberspace is found in many technologies and sectors but the most widely affected sector is telecommunication industry as the use of IT in this sector is more widely dominant. The need for studying the convergence and interrelationship between the telecom industry law and cyberspace has become pertinent to specialise and update.

With this objective the course is designed to

- To provide an overview of legal and security aspects of Telecom Sector and Cyberspace
- To understand the intricacies of legislative perspectives of telecom sector regulations and Information technology law
- To understand the forensic and evidentiary issues in Telecom related cybercrimes.

COURSE OUTLINE

Module I: Introduction to Cyberspace and Telecommunication

- a. Growth and Development of Digital telecommunications
- b. Telecommunication network and Law
- c. Electromagnetic Spectrum
- d. PSTN and ISDN

Module II: Legislations related to Technology Sector

- a. Information Technology law and Telecom Sector - Cellular & Mobile Services, Internet Services, Communication Outsourcing - Historical Evolution of Telecommunication Law and Policy
- b. Telecommunication Policy of India, Regulatory Framework for Spectrum Management - Indian Telegraph Act
- c. Indian Wireless Telegraphy Act - TRAI

Module III: Telecommunication Legal and Regulatory Issues

- a. Telecom Commission - Data Protection in Telecom sector
- b. Content Regulation in Telecom sector - Online Media Regulations

- c. Telecom Dispute Settlement and Appellate Tribunal - Licensing and Assignment
- d. Competition Law in Telecommunication - Telecommunication & IP issues

Module IV: International Legal Perspectives

- a. Telecom Law in different jurisdictions - International Telecommunications Law in US and UK
- b. International Organizations and Telecom Regulations - World Trade Organization
- c. International Dispute Resolution in online Telecom Sector - ADR and ODR

Module V: Online Telecommunications and Cybercrimes

- a. Types of Telecommunications related Cybercrimes - Indian Penal Code and Telecommunication Crimes
- b. IT Act and Telecommunications crimes
- c. Legislative perspectives of Telecommunication Crimes
- d. Judicial approach towards Telecommunication Crimes

LEARNING OUTCOME

After completion of the course students will be able to –

- Become an expert in the areas of law related to convergence of Cyberspace and Telecom sector
- To become a lawyer in telecom corporates for resolving issues in online scenario
- To practice in courts in cases related to telecom sector in online scenario.
- Explore and research the new advancements of online telecom Policies and career prospects across the world

E-COMMERCE AND CONSUMER PROTECTION

(Elective Course - I)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

With the advent of internet, we have undergone a revolutionary change in the business transactions and communications, which led to an astounding growth to the fields of e-commerce and web advertising. Apart from general e-disputes that arise by the acts or omission in the internet world, the parties to the e-contract may face different kinds of complex disputes. Consumer Protection Act identifies right to redressal as a significant consumer right based on which the three tier Redressal system has been established. This Course is designed to understand the significance and emerging need of consumer awareness in the globalised world. The course aims to give an insight into the concepts of e-commerce, its non-territorial nature towards consumer protection in the territorial based grievance redressal mechanism and explains on the existing legal and regulatory framework on consumer protection and discusses on the important challenge of determination of jurisdiction in the cyber world with various tests and principles along with International Conventions.

With this objective the course is designed to:

- Understand the Concepts of E-Commerce and to have a comprehensive understanding of the Evolution of Consumer Protection Laws in India
- To give an Overview of Legal and Regulatory Framework on Consumers Protection in India To understand the working and functioning of Grievance Redressal mechanism To give an insight into the challenges faced by the e-consumers
- To discuss on the International and Indian legal framework on determination of jurisdiction in internet contracts.

MODULE I CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK

Consumer and Markets; Globalization – E-Commerce – Categories: Electronic Markets, Electronic Data Interchange, Internet Commerce – Business Models – Based on Transaction Type, Based on Party Type – B2B, B2C, C2B, C2C, E-Governance; Consumerism to E- Consumerism

MODULE II EVOLUTION OF E-COMMERCE AND CONSUMER PROTECTION LAWS IN INDIA

CURRICULUM

DEPARTMENT OF MARITIME LAW

MARITIME LAW

The Department of Maritime law is a new addition to the existing selection of highly specialized and innovative departments of law in the University. The Department is intended to educate young law graduates in National and International Maritime laws which allow them to critically evaluate the laws and legal systems pertaining to the seas of the world from a juristic perspective. It also creates a perfect opportunity to get expertise in areas arising out of international disputes under Maritime and allied laws. Today, where India is rapidly integrating its economy with more than 90% of the country's trade being conducted through oceans and the sea providing passageway to 45,000 merchant ships worldwide and over 90 percent of global trade, the course is highly relevant and a need of this hour, by providing opportunity to lawyers to learn and analyze the theoretical and practical aspects of the Maritime laws.

The Tamil Nadu Dr. Ambedkar University stands out as a trendsetter in the Indian Legal Education by introducing a two-year LL.M program exclusively for the subject of Maritime law. The Objective of this course is to deliver an enriching experience to the students of LL.M through the process of learning, unlearning and re-learning whilst preparing them for the promising careers in this field. This Department in LL.M will enlighten the students to find career prospects in this arena in convergence with other laws as the choice-based credit system in the Institution will provide them an access with other departments such as International Law, Business Law, Criminal Law and Administration and Human Rights.

Maritime law is an exciting and challenging international subject for lawyers and others with an interest in law and the seas. The Course offers 6 Core Papers, 3 Discipline Specific Elective Papers, 2 Generic Elective Papers, the central orientation of which portrays diversified versions of Maritime law so as to make the syllabus both academic and practical. The Elective papers are designed with a view to expose students of other branches of LL.M to the comparative and contemporary facets of Maritime and its relation with Trade, Environment, Crimes and much more. This two-year (four semesters) course will not only equip the students of LL.M with a comprehensive and inter-disciplinary approach towards emerging challenges in the field and related laws, but will also facilitate in expanding their research acumen.

LEARNING OUTCOME

After completion of the course students will be able to

- Comprehensive understanding of Admiralty Jurisdiction from the historical perspective.
- Analysis of different Maritime claims and Limitation Claims in order to undertake practise in the field of Admiralty Law
- Understanding the increasing relevance of Arbitration and Conciliation in the field of Maritime Law.

COURSE – VII

MARITIME SAFETY AND SECURITY

(DISCIPLINE ELECTIVE COURSE - I)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

With maritime navigation becoming inevitable for the conduct of world trade, the concerns on safety and security at sea occupies the centre stage. The subject highlights the related international legislations on various aspects of safety and security in sea. Moreover, the subject covers the legal arena for liability in marine collision; salvages and wrecks; towage; pilot age; piracy, hijacking and armed robbery at sea.

COURSE OUTLINE

Module-I: Maritime Safety – An Overview

- a. General Principles regarding the safety of ships – Safety regulations under the Merchant Shipping Act – Unseaworthy Ships.
- b. International Convention on Safety of Life at Sea – Concepts and Principles.
- c. Role of International Maritime Organization and International Safety management Code in Maritime Safety.

Module – II: Vessel Safety

- a. Ship's Safety, Cargo Safety, Occupational Safety, Classification Societies, Human Element and Safety Management.
- b. Ship Operation - Manning Standards and Certification of Seafarers, Principles of Safe Manning.
- c. Navigational Safety - Aids to Navigation, Maritime Signals and Beacons, Radio Aids, Meteorological Aids, Hydrographic Aids.
- d. Control of Ship Safety - Flag State Control, Substandard Ships and Actions against Substandard Shipping, Port State Control.

Module – III: Prevention of Collision

- a. Collision Regulations in National and International Arena.
- b. Liability in Collision Cases, Jurisdiction in Collision Cases, Apportionment of Fault in Collision Cases.
- c. Salvage, Towage and Pilotage

Module – IV: Unlawful activities

- a. Hijacking And Armed Robbery against Ships, United Nations Measures to Combat Piracy, IMO Measures to Combat Piracy, Code of Practice for the Investigation of Crimes of Piracy and Armed Robbery against Ships.
- b. Human Smuggling and Human Trafficking, trafficking of illicit arms, maritime terrorism and unlawful acts, International Ship and Port Facility Security

Module – V: Maritime Cyber Security and Safety Management

- a. Intelligence Gathering and Information Sharing, Maritime Domain Area Awareness, Intelligence Gathering as a Military Activity, Monitoring the movement of ships and seafarers, Information Sharing and Law Enforcement;

LEARNING OUTCOME

After completion of the course students will be able to

- Appraise the implications of rules and legal framework of criminal jurisprudence related to maritime crimes.
- Gain insights and be familiarized with basic knowledge on critical international and national maritime laws.
- Analyse the role of the international criminal system over the regulation of jurisdictional issues on unlawful activities at sea like trafficking, hijacking, robbery, etc.,
- Develop further insightful study on how to prevent the evolving contemporary crimes through the implication of legal regulations.
- Determine the effective role of regional cooperation for a better outcome in preventing the threat to international peace and security and to build peace keeping.

COURSE – IX

PORT OPERATIONS AND COASTAL ZONE MANAGEMENT

(Discipline Elective - III)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

A Large portion of the world's inhabitations are in the Coastal Areas. The Coastal zone includes both the area of land subject to marine influence and the area of sea subject to land influence. It contributes for major part of world economies. Also there are high concern about the raising sea level, climate change because of which the conservation has become the priority. Thus knowing the issues involved in Coastal Zone Management, the Techniques and the priorities will help the young reader comprehend the necessity of legal regulations. Further countries like India with a lengthy coastal zone and many ports, are conducting 95% of the International trade volume though sea. This Course thus helps to understand the legal issues from multi-disciplinary approach.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following:

- To get introduced to the area of coastal zone management and ports operation.
- To realise the legal issues from the practical dimension by understanding the working of coastal zones management and port operations.
- To know the relevance of coastal zone management and port operations being conducted in a sustainable manner by balancing with the economic interest.
- To understand the role of technological innovations for coastal zone management and port operations.

MODULE--I: CONCEPT OF PORTS AND THEIR OPERATIONS

- a. Introduction - History and evolution of ports
- b. Importance of ports – Need for port operations

MODULE --II: PORT ECONOMICS AND MANAGEMENT

- a. Introduction – Port Economics- Port Competition (Comparative Advantage, Competitive Advantage and Absolute Advantage)- Port Authorities and their functions- Port Workforce- Port resource management-post demand – Inter –relationship between port development and the local economic impact.

- b. Port Ownership – its structure and organization – Port Governance and its structural types- Port privatisation – Four Stages of Port Management and Operations (Ports’ Off-Port-Limits Operations, berth Management, ship operations in the berth/terminal, Port and terminal Operators’ logistics networks).

MODULE--III: PORT OPERATIONS IN INDIA INCLUDING SAGARMALA

- a. Major ports in India- Structure of Ports- tasks performed by ports – management of ports – laws and policies relating to port management
- b. Port Trusts Act, 1963 – Major Port Authorities Act, 2021 – Project UNNATI – Indian Ports Association (IPA) and Indian Private Ports And Terminals Association.
- c. Sagarmala project – National Sagarmala Apex Committee

MODULE--IV: COASTAL ZONES AND COASTAL ZONE MANAGEMENT

- a. Introduction – Meaning and definitions of coastal zones – strategic importance of coastal zones –need for coastal zone management
- b. Existing Problems- Flooding, erosion, habitat loss and modification, structural damage, silting and shoaling, pollution, over exploitation of living resources- human intervention – shoreline alterations, coral harvesting, dredge and fill activities, sand and gravel extraction, dam construction, river diversion, ground water extraction - disposal of wastes in the marine environment and the consequences.
- c. Climate change and sea level rise – biodiversity
- d. Adaptive Responses – Retreat- accommodation-protection –economic implications- social and cultural implications- legal and institutional implications.

MODULE -- V: PORTS AND COASTAL MANAGEMENT: ROLE OF TECHNOLOGY

- a. Introduction – need for technology advancement in ports- need for technology advancement in coastal zone management- technologies used in ports and coastal zone management- capacity building and technology transfer issues- case studies.
- b. Education and community participation in ports and Coastal management.
- c. Allocation of Resources in the Ports and Coastal Management
- d. Risk Assessment Methodologies

MODULE--VI: MARITIME FORENSICS

- a. Introduction – ship accidents and hijacking and collection of evidence- use of GIS and Remote Sensing technologies in marine forensics- case studies.
- b. Cyber maritime and risk management.

- Learning the Coastal Zone Management and Port Operations of India and the contemporary solutions.
- Tracing the role of technology such as remote sensing in port operations and Coastal Zone Management.

COURSE – X

REGULATORY MECHANISM FOR MARINE POLLUTION

(Elective Course - I)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

The law of the marine environment has taken shape over several decades, responding to challenges caused by shipping incidents as well as other sources of pollution, and has become a complex framework of international conventions, developed through international consensus, and reinforced through technical developments in the committees of the International Maritime Organisation and other regional organisations. The course aims to orient students to know the specific obligation to protect and preserve marine environment generally and maritime environment with specific focus, such as preventing, controlling and mitigating pollution of marine environment. Further, the subjects aims to analyse the main principles which govern the international law of the marine environment as it applies to shipping and other offshore activities, and the extent to which National law is influenced by internationally accepted principles.

COURSE OUTLINE

Module – I: Marine Pollution – An Overview

- a. Evolution of Law regulating Marine Pollution. - Historical Background, Development of Principles for the Sustainable Development of the Environment under the United Nations Conferences, UNEP and its Regional Seas Program
- b. Sources of Marine Pollution

Module – II: Principles for Marine Environmental policy making and legislation

- a. Basis of Liability for Marine Pollution, Law of Negligence in Relation to Marine Pollution, Doctrine of Strict Liability/Polluter Pays Principle, Precautionary Principle, Prevention and Sustainable Development

Module – III: Marine Pollution from Ships

- a. Oil Pollution from Ships – International Convention – Liability for Oil Pollution Damage.
- b. National Shipping Laws and Oil Pollution from Ships

Module -- IV: Maritime Activities causing Marine Pollution.

- a. Marine pollution by seabed and subsoil explorations.
- b. Pollution by accidents at sea.
- c. Pollution by atomic weapon testing at High Seas
- d. Pollution from land-based sources, dumping of wastes, Nuclear waste disposal, Carriage of hazardous wastes.

Module – V: Enforcement of Pollution Control Laws

- a. Role of International Maritime Organization in prevention and control of pollution.
- b. National Jurisdiction – Responsibility of Flag States and Port States.
- c. Liability for Marine Pollution – Transboundary Pollution.
- d. Regional Approaches to the Protection of Marine Environment

- Conducting research with any specific aspects of Marine environment either based on regional or global issue.

COURSE – XI

INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND MARINE TRANSPORT SERVICES

(Elective Course - II)

OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE:

The study of International Trade Law in Maritime transportation helps students to develop an understanding of both the international and comparative perspective, which will surely benefit in future legal practice and in academic legal research. The subject is all about understanding the application of trade laws in maritime transport for the growth of the global and country's economy. A Further understanding of the international financial institutions at the backdrop for the development of opportunities for countries involved in maritime transport.

After undergoing the study, the student will be able to understand the following:

- Analyse the historical evolution and theories of trade and its role at the global level.
- Explore the international institutions like WTO, IMF, and IBRD in the international trade service.
- The role of international instruments in relation to world trade activities.
- Enumerate the impact of Covid-19 on global trade transportation and the fall of the economy.

COURSE OUTLINE

MODULE - I: International Trade and importance of maritime transport and the role of international institutions in maritime transport

- a. Introduction to International Trade Law - History and Development of International Trade Law - Role of Trade Theories in Development of International Trade Law - Basic Principles and Concepts of International Trade Law.
- b. History of Maritime Trade - Role of Maritime Transport in International Trade - International Maritime Transport and its growing role in the global economy -Maritime Transport Services in the Indian Economy - Ship Management and its significance.
- c. International Trade Law and Financial Institutions - IMF and IBRD

MODULE - II: WTO, GATS and International Trade

- a. International Trade and Historical background of the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs (GATT)

- b. Evolution of WTO - Principles and Working of WTO and its Covered Agreements - International Trade Negotiations at a Glance
- c. General Agreement on Trade in Services (GATS)

MODULE - III: International shipping and Role of ports

- a. Carriage of Goods by Sea - Types of cargoes and their means of carriage - Contract of Carriage of Goods by Sea - International Regulations for the Carriage of Goods by Sea - Bill of lading Conventions on carriage of goods by sea - Carriage of Passenger and Luggage by sea.
- b. Technologies used in Maritime Transportation - Role of Maritime Transporting Global Trade & Economy.
- c. Introduction to International Ships, Shipping and Cargo Charter party - Registries of Ships - Ship Management - Rights of Ship access to ports.

MODULE - IV: India and Maritime Trade

- a. Introduction - Historical Aspects of International Trade and Role of Maritime Transportation.
- b. Regulatory Framework of Shipping Industry in India - Ports in India - Shipping and Port Operations in India - Shipbuilding, Ship Repair and Ship Scrapping in India - Shipping laws in India.
- c. India and GATS

MODULE - V: Impact of Covid-19 on maritime trade and maritime industry as a whole

- a. The Doctrines of Force Majeure and rebus sic santibus - General Covid-19 impact on global maritime mobility - Covid-19 and International Maritime Trade - Covid-19 and Shipping Industry: Emerging Legal Issues - Persons at Sea - International Law and Covid-19 - Impact of Covid-19 on Shipping and Maritime Industry: An Analysis by ILO - Impact of Covid-19: The global scenario and Indian Scenario.
